NOTES BARE AFFAIR

ADMITTED SHE LOVED PASTOR

CHICAGO, Jan. 24.—Letters exchanged between Mrs. Charlotte Leland and Rev. Carl D. Case, pastor of the Fashionable First Baptist church of Oak Park, named in the divorce suit by Mrs. Leland's husband, were read in open court here today. These letters, Albert R. Leland, the husband testified were carried by him in the belief they had to da with church affairs.

"I am releived to learn that I haven't hurt you,' 'one of Mrs. Leland's letter said in part. "I made a big mistake and I see it all now. I am turning back to start anew."

The letters were read by Leland who took the stand when the case was re-opened today. All the principals in the case, and the wife of the pastor were in court.

Leland was questioned by F. A. Brown, attorney for Rev. Mr. Case.

"When did you first doubt your wife's virtue?" Brown asked.

"It was about November 22, 1923" Leland replied.

"What was the cause of your doubt?"

Leland then told of intercepting letters between his wife and the pastor. Several of the letters were then read into the record.

"Dear Pastor" one of the letters said, "$ am asking you to pleast let me know if I have worried you by word or deed. I am very sorry if I have. I beg forgiveness. I am terribly worried over your sickness. As ever, Charlotte."

This letter, Leland said, was written to Rev. Mr. Case when he was ill in a Minneapolis hospital.

In reply to this letter Leland said Rev. Mr. Case wrote as follows, addressing both Leland and his wife:

"Dear Albert and Charlotte:

"She is beyond me. I find it hard to be patient. I confess that most of the time she is a puzzle to me. She has loads of responsibility injected into her head and imagines that she isn't what she ought to be."

Leland testified that upon questioning his wife she confessed love for Rev. Mr. Case.

William R. Moss, attorney for Mrs. Leland, at this point told the court it was his understanding alienists were to testify in behalf of Rev. Mr. Case, seeking to establish Mrs. Leland of unsound mind and therefore not responsible for her "confession." He asked the court to bar the testimony of alienists.

"It is enough that this innocent woman be branded with the scarlet letter," Moss argued. "To add charges that she is insane is too much."

The court denied Moss' petition to dismiss alienists from the court.

Leland said he questioned his wife thruout an entire night.

"I asked how far she had gone," Leland said.

"She didn't want to tell me. She said 'I can't betray a friend.'

"I asked her if Rev. Case ever kissed or hugged her. She gave the same answer.

"Then I asked her to tell me the whole thing.

"She said she had been attracted to Rev. Mr. Case by her work and finally admitted they had gone as far as they could.

"I asked where. She said in Dr. Case's study in September 1922 and later at my own home. She confessed that this happened four or five times.

"Then she begged me to give Dr. Case a chance to retrieve himself. She said Dr. Case told her his wife had not been a wife to him."

Leland then told of going to the vestry committee and asking them to investigate the matter. After some time they reported to him that they found nothing, Leland said, and suggested that the matter be dropped "for the sake of the church, your wife, and your family."

Following Leland's testimony, court was adjourned for an hour

GAVE DOHENY PERSONAL NOTE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—Senator Walsh cross-examined Edward Doheny, oil magnate, after he had finished his statement, to the senate here today.

"If there was any collusion it involved seven members of the navy department and two men of my own company," Doheny said in answer to the first question. He explained all nine persons were involved in the lease.

"My California manager objected to both contracts because we assumed such great obligations. We almost came to blows over it," he said.

"Mr. Fall had nothing to do with the study of the conditions under which the contract was made."

It was brought out that Fall gave Doheny a personal note.

"I have been following the reports of the proceedings before your committee and have concluded that notwithstanding my authorization to ex-Secretary Fall early in December to state the full and complete facts in connection with a personal transaction had in 1921 between Mr. Fall and myself, Mr. Fall nas been making an effort to keep my name out of the discussion for the reason that a full statement might be misunderstood

"When asked by your committee chairman whether Mr. Fall had profited by the contraot directly or indirectly I answered in the negative. That answer I now reiterate.

"On the 30th of November, 1921, I loaned to Albert B. Fall $100,000 upon his promisory note to enable him to purchase a ranch in New Mexico.

"This sum was loaned to Mr. Fall by me personally.

"It was my own money and did not belong in whole or in part to any oil company with which I am or have been connected.

"In connection with this loan there was no discussion between Mr. Fall and myself as to any contract whatever. This loan had no relation to any of the subsequent transactions.

"The transactions themselves in the order in which they occurred dispose of any contention that they were influenced by making a personal loan to a lifelong friend.

"The reason for my making and Mr Fall's accepting the loan was that we had been friends for more than thirty years He had invested his savings for those years in his home ranch in New Mexico, which I understood was all that remained to him after the failure of mining investments in Mexico and nine years of public service in Washington, during which he could not properly attend to the management of his ranch His troubles had been increased in 1918 by the death of his daughter and his son, who, up to then, had taken his place in the management of his ranch

"In our frequent talks, it was clear tha the acquisition of a neighboring property, controlling the water that flows thru his home ranch, was a hope of his amounting to an obsession

'I told Fall I didn" need any security for it,' Doheny said

Got Money in Satchel.

Doheny said he gave the money to Fall in cash in a satchel He said he got the money from his bank, Blair and company in New York, by cashing a check

"I don't know whether he asked me to get it in cash or not," Doheny said

Walsh asked him if the transaction was not unusual

I loaned more than $1 [illegible] that was" Doheny answered "I realized that the money meant nothing to me, no more than $5 or $10 to another man

"I admit that Fall might have been led to favor me—but he couldn't because the negotiations were not carried on by men under his control."

Walsh brought out that Doheny obtained a "royalty oil contract" from the government several months before the loan.

"Fall had been struggling for money all his life, like I had," Doheny said. "He had large holdings in New Mexico but he failed to make the money he expected to. I knew that he had failed to get money he deserved and I felt sorry about it."

Doheny said Fall also "might have mentioned" Prentice McKinley of Cleveland, as a prospective source for the $100,000 he needed, at the same time he talked of getting it from E. B. McLean.

"Fall will insist on repaying me if his health remains good," he said.

"I'm just an old time, ordinary, irresponsible old man, sort of a prospector," Doheny said in explaining why he was not acquainted with certain details of his lease

During the cross-examination Senator Walsh asked Doheny to disclose the contents of a note handed Doheny by Senator Smoot. Utah, a member of the committee while the hearing was going on.

In the note, Smoot asked Doheny to "see me alone in my office after you have testified."

Before Doheny produced the note, Smoot called out "I can tell you what's in it."

"How was the note communicated to you?" Walsh asked.

"Thru my son," Doheny answered.

Doheny denied that he had communicated with any member of the committee before testifying.

Doheny said the money he gave Fall was used by Fall to purchase a $91,000 ranch in New Mexico and to make improvements on Fall's property.

Fall was hard up at that time and needed the money, Doheny said Fall told him.

Doheny said he gave Fall authorization to tell all the facts about his loan, to tell the committee months ago but that Fall chose not to do so

His statement was given with sanction of Fall, Doheny said. Doheny conferred with Fall in New Orleans before coming here. Gavin McNab, Doheny's counsel, read a statement for Doheny, suggesting that the committee advise President Coolidge ot appoint a committee of experts to investigate his leases.

If these experts should find the leases were not "honestly" entered into, Doheny will take steps cancel them.

Walsh brought out in examining the witness that Fall gave Doheny a personal note

"I left it at home, I think, or it may be in New York," he said.

Doheny promised to send the note to the committee

Negotiations for the loan were carried on by telephone, November 30, 1921 Doheny was in New York and Fall in Washington

"I have known Fall for about thirty years," Doheny said. "We were bound together by strong ties of friendship I followed him all thru his career I was fortunate and Senator Fall was unfortunate"

Doheny was overcome with emotion at this time and was unable to continue for a few seconds

"When he told me about his misfortunes I told him any time he needed money to come to me

He spoke of that time about getting it from Ed McLean but I told him to come to me."

GERMANS ARE NOT HELPING SELVES

Unthinkingly They Pay Exorbitant Prices for Foodstuffs, Instead of Trying to Assist the Starving.

BERLIN—(By Mail.)—Germany's junkers have stopped hoarding their bountiful harvest and meat supplies.

The flood of meats now swamping Berlin and other big cities offers ample proof of earlier charges that they were holding back their treasures, regardless of the fate of their suffering fellow countrymen.

The rentenmark—at this writing stable and quoted even higher than the English shilling or the American quarter—was responsible for unlocking barred granaries and turning herds toward the city abattoirs

The whole absence of bread and meats about three months ago was due to the reluctance of the big landowners to take papermarks for their products.

In some cases, the big farmers also saw a chance that, by withholding from the cities, they could influence political affairs—getting capital for the reactionaries later by opening their granaries should the reactionaries come into power.

Supplies Come Out.

But stabilization of the mark—be it permanent or otherwise—drove out these hoarded supplies.

Now every meat shop and bakery in Berlin is loaded to overflowing with choice viands. Some people think they are cheap. Compared to world prices, they are double or treble what they should be.

But for the average man, the main thing is that with whatever money he earns he can still buy something the next day or the next week. Previously he got his paper marks one day only to find that by night or at least by the next day they had often literally lost half or more of the original purchasing power thru a new mark slump

United States Misinformed.

America is largely misinformed about conditions in Germany. Misery and starvation are prevalent enough—all too prevalent. But there is not the self-help here that there should be. Chancellor Marx made it clear in his Christmas message that the nation must learn to rely more on itself, if it is to expect outside aid. This is a much-needed note in the nation's life, it is admitted everywhere by foreign observers and clear-minded Germans.

When dealers ask—and get—$1 a pound for fruit; 60 to 90 cents or more per pound for meat, and laugh at customers who complain at the prices, then there is something radically wrong in the psychology as well as the financial situation of the country.

And, especially, is there something radically wrong with the situation when in the midst of this, there is much wretched poverty which for the most part is relieved by foreign help, rather than by greater efforts at home on the part of those who pay unthinkingly the prices asked in German shops.

A food loan from America will help tide over the two to three months between the exhaustion of this year's crop and the coming of another harvest. The food situation is, all in all, vastly better than in other years since the war. The shortage above mentioned is nothing new. Germany has always had to cover a food shortage by imports.

TRY TO CLEAR ANDERSON NAME

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—Designating in the state's case against William H. Anderson, state Anti-Saloon league chief, as "a fantastic claim," defense attorneys today began efforts to clear Anderson of the charge that he committed third degree forgery in manipulating the books of the league

The only question, Anderson's attorneys claims, upon opening the case of the defense, "is whether a certain entry of $4,400 on the books of the Anti-Saloon league constitutes the crime of forgery."

Claiming that there was no mystery about the $4,400 Anderson had altered from a salary charge against the account of O. B. Phillips, the defense said, Anderson had permission of the league's board of directors to enter into an agreement with Phillips that all commissions over $10,000 should be split 50-50 between Phillips and Anderson. Phillips' commissions during the year the alleged forgery took place amounted to $18,000, the defense claimed and of this sum $4,400 was deducted as Anderson's share.

The first defense witness, however, didn't help Anderson's case much. L. H. Fancher, a banker who takes care of the league's finances, was not permitted to state whether he approved the altered entries on the books and under cross-examination admitted he hadn't seen the books for eleven months, dropped in at the league headquarters only occasionally and didn't know about the questioned entry, until long after it had been made.

Then William F McLaughlin, an accountant who went over the league's books, was called. On direct examination he insisted that the entries didn't mean anything. Under cross-examination he became greatly confused, finally said the entries did mean something and was excused after an hour and a half's grilling on technical bookkeeping points.

The building was owned by C. A. Helvey, son of George Helvey, after whom the town derives its name, and was erected ten years ago at a cost of nearly $4,500. The fire is said to have been started from an overheated flue above the heating stove. Most of the furniture and contents of the home were carried out and saved, but all potatoes, canned fruits and other supplies in the basement were lost. The town has no fire protection. The loss on contents is estimated at $300. The building was insured for $1,200 and the contents for $100.

GARNER PLAN IS FAVORED

Democrats Wield Whip in Drive for Tax Cuts.

MILLS ANALYZES PROPOSALS

G. O. P. Leaders Still Seeking for Compromise.

Republicans Split Over Mellon Plan—Democrats Not to Budge From 44 Per Cent Surtax Maximum.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—Pass the Mellon bill and cut the taxes of all the people. Adopt the Garner plan and reduce taxes of the present 3,172,000 income tax payers.

This was the argument made today by Representative Mills, New York, in a speech in the house giving a careful analysis of the republican and democratic tax plans before congress.

With republicans split on the Mellon plan and desperately seeking a compromise, democratic hopes are high for forcing acceptance of the plan of Representative Garner, Texas democrat.

Having won a strategic victory, democratic leaders say they will not budge from the 44 per cent surtax maximum in the democratic plan. They believe the progressives will rally to it rather than support the Mellon plan, with its 25 per cent surtax maximum.

Despite the determined stand of the democrats, republican leaders indicated that negotiations for a compromise were still in progress. They are confident the democrats will accept a lower rate rather than be placed in a position of blocking tax reduction.

The democrats are mystified by the compromise offers in view of the flat announcement from the white house that President Coolidge will veto any tax bill that alters the fundamental principles of the Mellon plan.

Republicans explained that they were proceeding with compromise plans with the conviction that the president will not veto the bill. Many democrats regard the white house statements as an effort to force a compromise on the lower possible surtax rates they are willing to concede.

ROMANCE NOW IS IN ASHES

WIFE BLAMED MOTHER-IN-LAW FOR DOMESTIC TRAGEDY.

Now Supreme Court Hears Latter's Plea That She Be Not Fined $6,000 for Giving Son Good Advice.

Ashes of romance were strewn about the floor of the supreme court Thursday morning, and poetry and law contended for the favor of the judges. The poetry was furnished by the well known Mr. Shakespeare and the law by a group of attorneys from Polk county.

The case set for submission was one where Edith F. Hope, one-time wife of Arthur C. Twarling secured a judgment in the district court for $6,000 against her mother-in-law, Anna A. Twarling, for alienation of the affections of young Twarling. The suit originally included the father-in-law, John H. Twarling, but the jury put all the blame on the mother-in-law.

The attorneys for the ex-wife said that the jury found against the elder Mrs. Twarling because they saw in her a domineering woman determined on having her own way, and that "pride, malice and hatred were read upon every line of her face when she was testifying."

The young woman said that shortly after marriage they went to live with the old folks, and that soon thereafter a systematic policy was begun to separate her from her husband. She says, Mrs. Twarling made slighting remarks about her, said she ought to have better sense than to urge certain propositions and "that is the way with a poor girl marrying into a rich family and spending their money." She sneeringly said that the young wife "had never been used to anything."

One time she was going to wash Arthur's head for him, but his mother cried out, "Can't you ever keep your hands off Arthur?" When it came to housework she was told "that is not my way and you just keep your mouth shut." She was also told she was out of date, a back number and did not know how to plan things, that she was told she did not know enough to iron anything more than dish cloths and colored clothes, that she was told she was a dirty, nasty thing, too low to be in the Twarling family, that she would not serve plaintiff at table, and was unkind and cross at all times.

This is denied by the mother-in-law. She says that not until after the boy had repeatedly declared that he would no longer live with his wife did his parents offer any suggestions. Her attorneys said that it was the young woman's mental attitude toward her husband that caused all the trouble. She was jealous of his association with his mother and she imagined that because he was married up in his business he was indifferent and that the separation was due to his parents influence. This jealousy affected her judgment, they said, and she says in the [illegible] letters [illegible] "Truth is light as air and to the jealous confirmation strong as proofs of Holy Writ," as Mr. Shakespeare put it.

It was also pleaded that as she was paid $4,000 alimony that ought to be taken into consideration in considering the amount of damages prayed. They said that the law permits parents to advise with their child in good faith and with proper motives and that action for such advice will not be unless recklessly and maliciously given.

ALLURES NO DEMOCRATS

NORRIS SPECTRE APPARENTLY FRIGHTENS OTHERS.

Question in Political Circles Now Is What Democrat Dares to Enter Where Governor Feared to Tread.

Governor Bryan's abandonment of the senatorial field after all the other ambitious democrats in the state had felt that he was in complete possession of it, has created a curious condition in democratic ranks. So far Trenmor Cone is the only democrat who has filed, and it is no secret that Trenmor did that because he believed the governor would be a candidate and he wanted the chance of confronting him on certain issues.

Now that the governor has let down the bars, there is much hesitancy about entering the field. Congressman Shallenberger, who intended to file before the governor's maneuverings convinced him he intended to be a senatorial candidate and at a time when it was believed Norris would not be a candidate, has shown no signs of filing. Norris beat him soundly twelve years ago, and it is figured he will not jeopardize his chance of remaining in congress. And who else is there who wants to run where Bryan would not?

As one republican puts it the democrats of senatorial caliber are very likely to have no relish for the role of the chump who rushed in where angels feared to tread. Mr. Bryan representing the angel in this case.

With Norris as the republican nominee, the chances for any democrat are poor, is the way the politicians figure it. They are also wondering what anguish of mind would seize upon various ambitious but fearful democrats should Sloan beat Norris in the primary.

The Norris petitions will be filed with the secretary of state Friday forenoon. The receipt for the $50 fee is now in Mr. Sorenson's hands. No word has yet come from the senator as to whether he will accept, altho close friends have wired him urging that he declare himself at once. It is possible that he is waiting for the actual filing before giving assent. He will have five days thereafter in which to state what he will do.

MERGER OF FIRTH BANKS

Combined Deposits of $306,000 and $92,000 in Cash Under Management of Firth Bank.

Consolidation of banks at Firth was announced Thursday by Secretary Knudson of the state banking department. Lack of sufficient business for two banks in the village is given as the reason. The Firth bank has taken over the Farmers bank. Both are state banks. The capital stock of the combined banks remains the same as the Firth bank had, $20,000. The surplus and undivided profits of the combined banks is $5,000 and the cash on hand is $92,000. The combined deposits are $206,000; loans, $218,000.

The officers of the Firth bank remain the same as before except that Cashier John Doeschot of the Farmers bank becomes assistant cashier of the Firth bank. J. G. McKinney is president and William Kramer is vice president; J. C. Ruigh, cashier.

The Farmers bank had a capital of $15,000 and $3,000 surplus. $58,000 of deposits, loans amounting to $29,000 and $29,000 cash on hand.

ONE DEMOCRAT IS OUT AFTER OFFICE

Warren Riggs of Archer, Formerly County Clerk of Merrick, Files for Land Commissioner.

Warren Riggs of Archer, Merrick county, filed Thursday as a democratic candidate for state land commissioner. The filing was in the form of a petition containing forty-three names. Mr. Riggs has not filed a written acceptance as required by law. He has five days in which to do so. He was county clerk of Merrick county in 1915 and served two years. Later he was salesman for the State Journal Manufacturing company. He is the first democrat to file for a contest with the present land commissioner, Dan Swanson.

L. H. Laughlin of Beatrice is the subject of a petition signed by thirty-three republicans who ask Secretary of State Pool to place his name upon the primary ballot as a republican candidate for the state senator for the sixteenth district. Mr. Laughlin is an attorney, a member of the firm of Hazlett, Jack and Laughlin.

Charles H. Meacham, jr., of Dorchester has filed as a republican candidate for the state senate. Mr. Meacham without the junior attached to his name represented the district in the last session of the legislature.

J. K. Ward of Arcadia has filed as a republican candidate for the house in the seventy-seventh district. He is a candidate for renomination in that district.

STREET CARS NOT PASSING

NEW YORK STATISTICS SHOW GAIN FOR THE YEAR.

Local Traction Manager Pleased With Response When His Men Present Petitions Along Initiative Line.

In answer to an assertion from a prominent Lincoln business man that street cars are becoming obsolete, Manager Shaw of the Lincoln Traction company, points to patron showings by transportation companies in a number of the larger cities. In New York, for instance, the year 1923 showed an increase over 1922 over all surface lines combined. The figures being 1,052,000 for 1922 and 1,071,000 for the year just ended. Altho Lincoln is not one of those cities in which transportation business shows an increase, Mr. Shaw holds that the argument is good.

As to initiative petitions now in circulation for the purpose of putting to the voters the issue of whether or not the company shall be required to shoulder cost of new pavement where no pavement now exists, the traction manager said:

"Circulators to the petitions have met with surprising success and from reports they give us, I assume that approximately 90 per cent of those who are asked to sign do sign. Of course I appreciate the fact that signing the petition does not commit the signer as for the proposed charter amendment."

Mr. Shaw was asked whether or not the rate hearing just completed before the state railway commission, may have a detrimental influence on the proposal. He admitted that this may be true to some extent but explained that the company must settle the paving question before another construction season is under way. To wait until the fall election, he said, would mean investment of thousands of dollars more in paving. He figures that the $600,000 now inuvested in that commodity means approximately one cent on each fare.

It is understood that a circulator who visited the engineering office at the city hall had little or no luck. This, however was explained as probably due to the fact that Mr. Cowgill, chief of the engineering bureau, had not signed.

Mr. Cowgill said that he had not seen one of the petitions.

"I probably would not sign," he said. "I find that I must sell wider pavement to the property owner when there are tracks in the street abutting the property."

Manager Shaw said that more than 600 signers have been turned in. Other petitions are out. He estimates the required total at approximately 800.

GREENWOOD FIRE DAMAGE

LOSS MAY REACH $30,000 WITH $18,000 INSURANCE.

First National Bank, Postoffice and Drug Store Reduced to Debris in an Early Morning Blaze.

GREENWOOD, Neb., Jan. 24.—A fire of unknown origin completely wiped out the First National bank, the post office and the Ernest Smith Drug store here at an early hour Thursday morning. The total property loss is estimated to be between $25,000 and $30,000.

About $18,000 of the loss is covered by insurance.

All of the bank and post office fixtures, several pouches of mail, and the entire stock of the drug store, were consumed by the flames. It was feared for a time that the McDonald grocery and a pool hall operated by J. I. Carpenter would suffer a like fate but with the arrival of the Lincoln and Havelock chemical tank trucks, the fire was soon under control and further loss averted.

The ringing of the bank's burglar alarm about 6 a. m. gave the first warning of trouble. The telephone operator, hearing the alarm, notified P. L. Hall, cashier of the bank that the bank was being robbed. Mr. Hall immediately gathered the vigilance committee together and with loaded shot-guns they advanced on the fire.

Calls for help were sent to nearby towns as soon as the fire was discovered and on account of inadequate fire fighting apparatus the Greenwood firemen could do little but watch the blaze until re-enforcements arrived.

According to Mr. Hall, cashier of the bank, the roof began falling about 6:30 a. m. and before the chemical engines from Lincoln and Havelock could reach them the buildings were in ruins.

The bank and the postoffice occupied the building on the southeast corner of the intersection and the drug store the next building east. It is Mr. Hall's theory that the fire was started by bad wiring somewhere in the basement of the bank. A solid brick wall divides the bank building from the drug store but a cellar door

AIR PATROL OF NEBRASKA

FEDERAL GAME WARDENS CAN HAVE AIRSHIPS.

Use of the Folker Planes Is Put Up to State Game Warden Koster by John Quincy Holmes.

Whether federal and state game wardens shall patrol the Missouri and Platte rivers, the sandhill and lake regions of Nebraska in a Folker passenger air plane was eloquently put up to Chief Game Warden George G. Koster of the state department Thursday by John Quincy Holmes, federal game warden of Orleans, Neb. Mr. Koster listened with bated breath and made a mental calculation as to the cost of extra hazardous life insurance. He did not commit himself.

Mr. Holmes likes the idea and is willing to vote to accept the offer of the federal department of agriculture and navy department of four passenger planes for use in Nebraska. Mr. Holmes served six years in the game department of Nebraska and is now on his sixth year in the federal service with Kansas and Nebraska as his territory. The federal department of agriculture has jurisdiction over the enforcement of the federal laws protecting migratory birds. Nebraska and other states have adapted their laws to the regulation of the federal rules which prohibits spring shooting of ducks and other migratory water fowl.

It is proposed that the federal government furnish airplanes and pilots to patrol the lands. It now patrols [illegible]ons of the east and west coasts. Mr. [illegible]mes believes the planes can be [illegible]ely used by game wardens that [illegible] will have both a moral and practical effect. The wardens can spy o[illegible] hooters in the closed season. They will carry powerful glasses and [illegible] see what is going on and act accordingly. The planes can land almost anywhere in the sandhill region or along rivers. The observer will not be able to tell whether a hunter has a game license in his pocket when fall shooting is lawful, but in the closed season he can tell whether hunters are in the field.

Mr. Holmes has ridden in an airplane from Omaha to Lincoln and knows what sensation is produced when the ship turns a corner. Mr. Koster took passage in one for a twenty mile sail out of Niobrara. He is willing to do almost anything once to cooperate with the federal government but is not eager to try flying like a bird.

RECOVER SPARROW'S BODY

Pay Clerk J. W. Nichols, Osceola, Mo.

OIL MAN ADMITS A LOAN TO SECRETARY

Edward L. Doheny of Los Angeles Says Transaction "Personal."

NOTHING TO DO WITH LEASE

Lessee of Two Naval Reserves Before Committee.

APPEARED AT OWN REQUEST

Secretary Fall Expected to Reach Washington by Night and to Tell Own Story Friday.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—Edward L. Doheny of Los Angeles, lessee of two naval reserves, told the senate public lands committee today that he loaned $100,000 to Former Secretary of the Interior Fall.

Doheny said the loan was made "personally" on Nov. 30, 1921.

Doheny said it was purely a "friendly transaction and had nothing to do with the two leases he obtained from Fall.

Doheny made his statement in written form. He said he had not told of the loan previously because he had not been asked about it by the committee.

"Mr. Fall has tried to keep my name out of it," Doheny said.

"The loan has nothing to do with the lease I obtained in competitive bidding from the government."

Doheny leased naval oil reserves Nos. 1 and 2 in California some months before Harry F. Sinclair leased Teapot Dome.

Doheny's short white mustache hung down over his lips. As he spoke he peered thru his gold rimmed spectacles directly at Senator Walsh, across the table.

The hearing room was jammed to the doors ten minutes before the hearing started and capitol police stationed outside turned scores away.

Doheny was accompanied by his counsel, Gavin McNab.

Assistant Attorney General Holland, who was sent by direction of President Coolidge to listen to the evidence, was present.

Doheny said his bid for the California reserves was the lowest received by the government.

Two proposals were submitted by him, Doheny said.

He read a letter sent to him by Fall notifying him that his bid had been accepted.

Doheny's first contract covering reserves one and two was signed July 12, 1921, several months before he made the loan to Fall.

Doheny's startling announcement was received in silence by the committee.

He continued reading his statement in a high pitched, firm voice.

The bid was specifically for royalty oil but it included a provision for leasing naval reserves Nos. 1 and 2 in California, which were leased.

"This shows that there could not have been any collusion between my company and any one connected with th elease," Doheny stated.

Doheny read rapidly and members of th ecommittee and others that packed the room strained to catch his words.

Doheny will tell the story of leas-

TESTIFY COHAGEN PAID COUNTY BILLS

Witness Declares Former County Commissioner at North Platte Paid Bridge Repair Work With Own Check.

NORTH PLATTE, Neb., Jan. 24.—The trial of Tennessee Cohagen, former county commissioner, charged with embezzlement, drew nearer to a close today when the state rested its case.

A motion by defense attorneys for an instructed verdict for Cohagen was promptly overruled by Judge Tewell.

Joe Hunt was called to the stand and testified that Cohagen paid him with a personal check for work done in repairing bridge washouts in June, 1921. Defense attorneys said they expected to bring numerous witnesses to testify that Cohagen paid for the bridge repairs out of his personal account.

PROGRAM AT LIONS CLUB

Music, Dramatics, Baseball and Argument Provide Unusual Entertainment.

The club transacted considerable business and enjoyed an unusually [illegible] program Thursday at the weekly luncheon at the chamber of commerce. The president named a committee to go out with Trea[illegible] league during the afternoon, and work on the Western league campaign fund, to get a franchise for Lincoln. Roy Munson announced his last attendance at the club, in view of his departure for Minneapolis.

President Cobbey introduced a number of Cotner students who put on a program of music and dramatics, including a piano violin and flute trio and a one act play. Mr. Cobbey spoke briefly on the place of the fine arts in the Cotner curriculum and in community life. This part of the program was interrupted by an argument between Cubs Ferguson and DuTeau over a five cent fine, which resulted in both being fined fifty cents. Incidentally the president of Cotner paid ten cents for mentioning one of his fellow Lions as "Mr." Beckman.

COWGILL MAY PUT IT OVER

CITY MANAGERS ASSOCIATION AFTER HIS STUFF.

Possibly in Order to Pound Him Down to Reasonable Terms, Bunch of Criticism Is Sent Thru Mail.

The City Managers association, municipal government architect, is after Mr. Cowgill's stuff. This organization which booms the city manager plan for cities, desires that the Lincoln councilman broadcast his ideas—not by wireless but by mail. The street department head wrote or caused to be written on Thursday a letter to headquarters at Lawrence, Kansas, in response to a letter received by him from the association. The query sent him from Lawrence seemingly belittles his proposal. If, however, the builders of muny governments on a city manager pedestal expect to discourage Mr. Cowgill and then steal his stuff, they are barking up the wrong tree. He has reserved all rights to himself and will not permit his plan to be used unless it be known as his plan. The association writes in part the following:

"We note that you recommend that your administrative department be organized under three heads—one head to be paid a salary of $6,000 a year and two heads to receive $5,000 each. Under this plan you would have three city managers—none with sufficient authority. You would be paying high salaries to unskilled elected officials. We would like more data from you."

"You've got me wrong," writes Mr. Cowgill in response. "I do not propose three managers. My proposed program had to do entirely with administration and nothing to do with legislation. I could, however, go further and dip into the legislative by proposing that councilmen be paid nominal salaries—say $500 a year. I propose, in an administrative way, to reduce five kingdoms to three. I propose a city manager as captain of municipal industry and two skilled assistants or lieutenants. Under this plan, the manager would have certain activities directly under him. He would be commander-in-chief of all activities. In addition, I would have one expert along practical and electrical lines for water and light and one expert along civil lines to have charge, under the manager, of the street department."

Mr. Cowgill tells the association to its face that he doesn't believe any one man can manage this city's business without some help. He explains that his so-called experts are not to be elected but are to be appointed by the council. He sends prepaid to the association a copy of his governmental chart.

NEW STORY BY LINCOLN

ADMITS HIS WIFE ALIVE AND SHOUP DEAD.

Word From Friend in Florida That Mrs. Lincoln Was Seen, Leads to Confusing Confession by Eccentric.

AURORA, Ill., Jan. 24.—Warren J. Lincoln, eccentric attorney-gardener and distant kinsman of Abraham Lincoln, today confused authorities with a new and different story.

Lincoln, who several weeks ago confessed he killed his wife after she had murdered Byron Shoup, her brother, and admitted burning the bodies of both in his greenhouse furnace, now says his confession was a fabrication—that his wife is alive, but that Shoup is dead.

Extending his slender hands towards detectives who questioned him, Lincoln said:

"Do you think those hands ever did that? I never killed anyone."

Lincoln's wife and brother-in-law disappeared in January, 1923. At that time he told neighbors they had run away from him.

In April of the same year, Lincoln himself disappeared, leaving behind evidence indicating he had been murdered. He reappeared two months later with a story that he had been kidnaped and drugged by his wife and Shoup.

Once more he disappeared and when found several weeks ago he confessed to authorities he killed his wife with a poker during a family argument in which Mrs. Lincoln had slain Shoup. He burned the bodies, he said, after dismembering them.

A report from Daytona, Fla., that a friend of the family had seen Mrs. Lincoln in that city several days ago was given to Lincoln. He at once repudiated his confession and declared he knew his wife was still alive.

IF RHEUMATIC BEGIN ON SALTS

Says We Must Keep Feet Dry, Avoid Exposure, Eat No Sweets.

Stay off the damp ground, avoid exposure, keep feet dry, eat no sweets of any kind for a while, drink lots of water and above all take a spoonful of Jad Salts occasionally to help keep down uric and toxic acids.

Rheumatism is caused by poison toxins, called acids, which are generated in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine. The pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly, cold weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work; they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this poison, which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain, called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is helpful to neutralize acidity, remove body waste also to stimulate the kidneys, thus helping to rid the blood of these rheumatic poisons.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism.—Advertisement.

Your Problems

BY MARY GORDON

Dear Miss Gordon: Mine is a true problem! It's this way. I am twenty-one and really am old enough to settle my own problems but I am in a quandry over this one. I have a sister twenty-three who is engaged to be married in a month. Lately there has come a feeling over me and over him (her fiance) as well. He is all the world to me and has even confessed his love for me. In vain we have fought off our love for each other but each day the love grows stronger. No one ever suspects the condition things are in so almost any plan could be followed. My sister is very sensitive and delicate and thinks the world of her fiance. We both hate to tell her but feel the wedding should not take place. I dare not tell anyone of all this but thought you could help me. Not only would it almost kill my parents but they would always hate him for it. At times I have thought that he should give us both up but I know that I could never stand this. If he should marry my sister there would still be a problem for they are to live with my parents where I would see him constantly. Matters have been this way for some time, in fact about nine months. At first he did not tell me of his feeling for me but I have loved him ever since I met him. I went away for about three months and thought I would forget him. I found it was impossible and so I returned. It was then that he began to pay attention to me and about a month ago he told me he loved me. Don't tell me to go away and forget him because I have tried that and I couldn't stand it.

We both realize that something should be done immediately, but what? Please answer at once because something must be done right away.—One of a Triangle.

A. Ordinarily I do not approve of broken engagements, especially at the eleventh hour. But in this case, where the girl's own sister is the "other woman," I think the young man should tell the girl he can not go on and marry her. It will hurt her, yes, but how much more if he waits until after the marriage!

As for you, I should think shame would overwhelm you every time you think of the part you have played in wrecking your sister's romance.

Have you thought that giving him up will hurt her as much as you? Undoubtedly her love for him is as strong as yours.

If you are wise, you will not marry this young man, even tho your sister releases him. I believe he should not tell her the cause of his decision now. The hurt will be severe enough, without the added thought of her sister's part in it.

Any man as dishonorable as he seems to be (and I say that, knowing that very, very often love comes, unbidden) will not make a good husband for any woman.

Dear Mary Gordon: We are two young girls who are planning to return east in a short time, and before we go, we would like to have dresses made alike to wear to parties and dances and yet not be too fussy to wear sometimes in the afternoon, and we want to know what kind of goods will be worn in the new spring dresses mostly, also what colors would be nice, one of us is a blond, the other a brunette. Do you think black will be worn very much, and what way would you suggest for making them?

Will they wear them long waisted or not? Do you think the Colonial pump will stay in very long, and will they wear the Egyptian sandals this summer?—Delores and Donna Rae.

A. It is too early to tell wha will be the most popular style for spring or the most favored fabric. It is expected that both satins and flat crepes will be good. Probably satins will lead at first and the crepes later in the season. The high colors rule but black leads in satins. Crepe satins are used a great deal in the afternoon models and black leads altho cocoa shades are very good. Black with bead trimming is very good for afternoon. Lanvin green, brick dust and beige are good afternoon colors, too. Apron effects are very good especially in youthful styles and laces and embroideries in trimming. Pompadour taffetas and two-tone striped taffetas trimmed in black lace and bands of contrasting silk are popular among youthful evening dresses. The long, slender lines with apron effects or tiered skirts and short sleeves will be very popular in afternoon styles. Bouffant styles will be used in the evening.

The beltless mode is the thing now and there is talk of introducing empire styles as they fit in the present lines very well.

The permanence of the Colonial pump all depends upon how well it takes. They will wear sandals again. Colored kid trims will appear on early spring shoes and later, colored shoes will come in again, it is said.

Dear Mary Gordon: As I am a old reader of the Journal and your column I thought I would write to you, but this is no love affair or afraid my husband will leave but a great deal more serious. Last fall I became a very bad sufferer with neuritis in both of my arms was almost beyond waiting on myself so I went to one of Lincoln's leading docter's and he told me to go get a tube of ——— and use hot epson salts packs, charged me 2.00 for a bum advise but I tryed it got worse all the time as I was bothered with a goiter also and the steam was terrible so when I ran out of salts I ask our druggist what neuritis is and he told me an impichment of the nurves and he told me to go to a certain Dr. and I did and he released those nerves, gave me medicine to kill the acid conditions and released the nerves that ran to the throat and gave me stuff to rub on my goiter and the shots in the arm to kill the blood germs. My neuritis is gone and my goiter is so small you cant hardley notice it at all. I saw a number of different women on the street Tues. with terrible goiters, do you think I would have insulted them if I had told them where they can get relief with the electrice method and spine treatment and shouldent a Dr. be exposed that lies like that. I hope to see this letter in print if it is not to long, hoping it relieved some poor suffer as it did me. I remain a faithful Journal reader.—Mrs. J. C.

A. Perhaps you did not give the first doctor's treatment a long enough trial. I would not brand him as incompetent until I had more evidence. I don't believe I would stop a strange woman on the street and tell her of the remedy for goiter. The chances are she would be more offended than grateful.

Dear Madam: How do you spell girl's name (I'lean)? this is how it is pronounced. Is Eileen or Aileen correct? or Eilene?—Mrs. E. L.

A. The more common spellings are Eileen and Aileen. Aline and Eilene are sometimes seen.

My Neighbor Says—

For mixing flour and water use a fork or egg beater to make it smooth and free from lumps.

Ordinary baking powder, either dry or dissolved in water, will put out a small fire immediately. It forms a gas, carbon dioxide, which smothers the fire. A small handful in a cup of water or by itself is usually sufficient.

Season baked beans with olive oil instead of pork or butter. The flavor is fine and the dish is more easily digested. A little olive oil may also take the place of butter with mashed potatoes and makes a nutritious and palatable addition to the menu.

The house of representatives of the Philippine insular legislature passed a bill appropriating $50,000 for the relief of typhoon sufferers after Governor General Leonard Wood vetoed it.

CHARACTERS IN INQUIRY

FALL HAS IRASCIBLE TEMPER WHEN CROSSED.

Sinclair, the Oil Man, Started Out to Be Druggist—Doheny a Fatherly Looking Old Man.

By Lawrence Martin.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—The Teapot Dome scandal, which for a long time was "just another senate investigation" to most people, has become almost overnight a throbbing drama of politics, high finance and intrigue.

In any drama, the interest centers largely in the characters who move thru its situations.

Here, briefly sketched are some of the principal actors in Teapot Dome:

Albert B. Fall, of Three Rivers, N. M., former United States senator, former secretary of the interior. Fall is a long, gaunt "hard looking" plainsman of sixty-three, with a cold eye, a stringy "chuck-walla bill" moustache that droops its neutral colored strands nearly to his coat lapels. Miner, cattleman, lawyer, lumberman, farmer, stock raiser, politician, Fall has turned his hand to many things, ending with the cabinet position tendered him by the late President Harding, whose secretary of the interior he became March 5, 1921.

Fall is a man of irascible temper when crossed, but a "good scout" among his friends, with a wealth of experience gathered in the southwest.

His lanky figure, topped by a broadbrimmed soft hat and with a half chewed cigar stuck at an aggressive angle from a corner of his mouth, was long familiar about the capital. He talks in an aggressive, assertive manner and when aroused is a hard man to deal with.

Fall is the man who leased Teapot Dome to Harry Sinclair and the California naval reserves to E. L. Doheny.

Harry F. Sinclair, forty-eight, millionaire oil man and sportsman, owner of the champion race horse Zev. Sinclair is a native of West Virginia and started out in life to be a druggist. While in the drug business in Independence, Kas., he got into oil. Oil made him a millionaire. That permitted him to gratify his love of fine horses, so that his stable was the biggest single money winner on the American turf the past two seasons.

Like Fall, Sinclair can be "hard boiled" on occasions and for one reason and another is not exceedingly popular among some members of the sporting world in which his name is so well known.

Sinclair has been one of the country's most successful operators in oil. He leased the Teapot Dome naval reserve from Fall in April, 1922.

Edward L. Doheny, of Los Angeles spent twenty years prospecting for gold and silver and then turned prospector for "liquid gold"—California oil. Doheny is sixty-eight years old. He was born in Wisconsin, but the great far west called him and as a young man, he did everything out there—drove a dump cart, prospected, worked in mining camps and finally got rich in oil.

He is a fatherly-looking old man now, from whom most outward trace of the hard hitting old days is gone, tho his wealth is evidence he didn't forget the lessons he learned out under the stars. Doheny leased California naval oil reserves one and two from Fall.

Thomas J. Walsh, senator from Montana, is the nemesis of corruption in the Teapot Dome case, if corruption is there., Walsh is a mild, mannered, somewhat shy, but extremely tenacious and "unbluffable" westerner of sixty-five with an eye as cold as Fall's and what, before he trimmed it, was as handsome a "soup strainer" moustache as Fall ever boasted. He has a quality of grimness to match Fall's bluster.

Walsh's mind is essentially judicial, with the added keenness of a good investigator. He seldom raises his voice, but he is mighty hard to switch from the point.

25 YEARS AGO TODAY

The funeral of Charles H. Green took place at the home, 1815 Prospect street.

Rodney H. Bliss was elected baseball manager for the university. The students had been much excited by a rumor that unless a satisfactory man appeared during the day, steps would be taken at an extra session to abolish that branch of sports from the institution.

Nebraska City people were thoroly aroused with indignation over the published interviews alleged to be given out by Dr. S. R. Towne, who had been there representing the state board of health during the smallpox epidemic. He was alleged to have charged the local board of health with "rang ignorance and criminal negligence."

Mayor Graham had not decided how to act on the dollar gas ordinance. He said gas might be manufactured cheaper in other cities.

People in the personals: C. E. Weidman, Mrs. M. I. Farrant, Mrs Martha S. Bailey, H. E. Gingery Mrs. H. L. Wetherald, Mrs. A. E Lapp, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Billmeyer.

A number of Nebraska editors were so busy in Lincoln helping with the senatorial job that they didn't take time to go to Omaha for the twenty-seventh press association meeting.

"Some Wild Oats" Attracting Large Audiences at the Orpheum.

"Some Wild Oats" is the most daring, sensational and beneficial motion picture that was ever produced for the screen. The picture leaves nothing to one's imagination, it boldly puts the subject before you in a very frank and inoffensive manner, calling "a spade a spade," it goes into details and puts before you the naked truth. "Some Wild Oats" has an original story which is true to life, entertaining and educational at the same time. It is a story of a young farmer boy who comes to the big city to have a good time before entering the navy. His experience teaches one a remarkable lesson. Every father and son, mother and daughter, should see this picture. It will relieve them of the embarrassing moments that parents have in explaining the mysteries of life to their children.

An All Comedy Bill Opens at the Liberty Today.

There is certainly enough material in a college initiation to furnish plots for laughter for a dozen vaudeville acts. Kenney & Hollis who are touring the Orpheum circuit are the original college boys and their act "The Two Doctors" a satire on medicine is a scream; Bayes & Speck a clever duo of funsters have an offering that is replete with laughter and surprise; Jack Joyce is an original entertainer who never fails to win his audience; Le Roy & Lytton in a comedy oddity "Over the Fence"; The Baader LaVelle Troupe presenting "A Cycling Fantasy"; "Ruth of the Range" and Current News and View rounds out another big week's-end bill.

"To the Ladies," a Sparkling Comedy, Only Three Days More at the Rialto.

Married? You'll scream at this comedy of married life! Engaged? See this picture before you start housekeeping! "To the Ladies" is the funniest matrimonial comedy ever written. And what a cast. Theodore Roberts, Helen Jerome Eddy, Edward Horton and Louise Dresser.

THE LEAP YEAR GIRL

BY Fay Stevenson

SHOULD A GIRL PROPOSE?

A Tete-a-Tete in the Conservatory.

The music stopped suddenly and Peggy and Gregory found themselves opposite a cozy little conservatory.

"Could you spare a few moments from your gallant escorts to slip in here and chat with me?" asked Gregory, pulling her gently into the fragrant palmed and flowered oasis.

"Do you think Margie will sue you for breach of promise if we tarry here long?" Peggy countered laughingly.

Peggy snuggled up contentedly to Gregory in their little tete-a-tete corner. She wanted him to say, "You know I don't think seriously about Margie; we aren't even mental mates. I am just running about with her because I can't win the girl I really love. A man can't be alone always."

But Gavin Gregory made no such pretty speech. Instead he held himself aloof from Peggy's little overlapping shoulder and arranged his bow tie on his glossy white evening shirt.

"Let Margie wonder," he grumbled. "Of course I'm going to marry her, but I haven't proposed yet. She's a sweet little thing, domestic and all a girl should be. I suppose we'll be about as happy as the average man and wife."

"Not a very rosy picture, Gregory."

"He who expects too much from matrimony usually ends up in the divorce courts. Remember the old saying, 'Blessed is he who expecteth nothing.'"

"If I felt that way about marriage I think I should remain an old bachelor," replied Peggy. "A bachelor can have his ideals and even expectations. This is a great old world and the unexpected happens more than once to many of us!"

"An old bachelor is a pretty gloomy fellow when he gets to be forty. The gay chap of thirty still likes to dance and flirt, but at forty a man wants his home, his easy chair, his pipe and a wife."

"She will be just as attainable at forty as she is at twenty-nine."

"I'm not so certain about that. We are living in a rapid age. Times change every minute and the bachelor of forty who hasn't a limousine and jewels to offer will not be apt to land a very attractive wife."

"Why don't you forge ahead and get the limousine and jewels, Gavin?"

"Because I'm not a hustler. If I were I'd propose to a different girl from Margie Mindon."

Their eyes met and she knew then that he loved her.

Tomorrow—Making It Clear.

Bill Hart Is On the Firing Line Again at the Colonial.

Whoop 'er up! The two gun man is back! As quick on the draw as ever, and ready to thrill you as only Bill Hart knows how: "Wild Bill Hickok" is a triumphant return for the daddy of Western thrillers, and one you don't want to miss! Also "Fighting Blood" another of H. C. Witwer's famous stories.

"His Children's Children" Only Three Days More at the Lyric.

Is the whole world worshipping at the shrine of the Money God? Forgetting everything else? Home, children and happiness? There's a big thought in back of this startling picture "His Children's Children" and a big situation in every foot of it.

ASK CUBAN RECIPROCITY

Nebraska Millers' Association Wants Chance at Wheat Products and Sugar.

OMAHA, Jan. 24.—Resolutions asking for a reciprocal trade with Cuba on wheat products and sugar so as to put American mills on parity with Canada were passed by the Nebraska Millers association convention. Cuba, according to speakers, buys most of its flour from Canada because the dominion has reduced its tariff on sugar.

Another resolution favored the Mellon tax plan.

C. J. Aller of Beatrice was elected president of the association. E. A. Blackburn of Omaha was chosen vice president, and J. N. Campbell, Omaha, secretary-treasurer.

Directors elected included F. A. Johnson, Crete; Ernest Myers, Superior; J. A. Emerson, North Bend, and C. E. Densmore, Hastings.

FOUR MEN BEAT ANOTHER

WARENSBURG, Mo., Jan. 24.—Charles Marcum, who was found unconscious in front of his burning home after being beaten by four men, was recovering today, according to attending physicians.

Marcum said the attack culminated a strange series of incidents starting last October when his wife left him. Shortly after she left, he said, four men appeared at his house and demanded to know her whereabouts. He told them she was in Davenport, Ia., and they left. They threatened to come back and kill him in case he had not told the truth.

They returned Tuesday night, altho Mrs. Marcum was in Davenport. A few hours previously Opal, their nineteen-year-old daughter, had disappeared.

Marcum said the four men twisted his body, causing terrific pains and then set fire to his house. He crawled as far as the road where he lost consciousness and was found later by passersby. Opal was still missing altho Mrs. Marcum was reported en route here from Davenport.

SUPPORT M'NARY-HAUGAN BILL

Farm Bureau Federation for Bureau for Exportation.

CHICAGO, Jan. 24.—The American farm bureau federation today declared its support of the McNary-Haugan bill for establishment of a federal bureau for the exportation of surplus American farm products.

A resolution supporting the bill was adopted. At the same time a resolution approving the appointment of "farmer minded" members to federal boards and commissions, was passed.

Hope was expressed by members of the bureau's board of directors that the various federal departments would not conflict but that "cooperation, without friction, will obtain."

PARMOOR TO BE SELECTED

IS NEW BRITISH REPRESENTATIVE ON LEAGUE COUNCIL.

Premier MacDonald Turns Attention to Foreign Matters—Russia and Ratification of Treaty Pressing.

LONDON, Jan. 24.—His labor government practically completed, Premier Ramsay MacDonald turned his attention to foreign office matters today.

One of the first of a number of pressing foreign affairs demanding his attention was to receive the resignation of Lord Robert Cecil as British representative on the league of nations council.

Cecil will be succeeded by Lord Parmoor, president of the council in MacDonald's cabinet, and it is understood he and the prime minister will press vigorously for early inclusion of both Russia and Germany in the league of nations.

Other problems accumulating for MacDonald's attention are recognition of Russia, ratification of the Lausanne treaty and the Tangier convention, negotiations regarding the Mosul oil fields and the Egyptian dispute, to say nothing of the Anglo-French dispute about occupation of German territory and over reparations.

It is considered unlikely that MacDonald will be required to devote much immediate attention to the rails strike altho there was no break in the deadlock today and J. Bromley, leader of the engineers and firemen who went out Sunday midnight, said the strikers position was stronger than ever.

NEGRO YOUTHS IN BATTLE

Cross River at Des Moines and Swoop Down on "West Side Cake-Eaters."

DES MOINES, Ia., Jan. 24.—East met west last night when a gang of belligerent negro boys hailing from east of the Des Moines river crossed the stream and swooped down upon a group of colored warriors holding objectives on the west side.

No motive is given for the advance of east side forces other than an expressed desire to "clean house on that bunch of west side cake eaters," as one told police today.

Up to the time of the arrival of police, it is reported the east siders had literally "cut" their way thru the westside defenders. A flank movement by police, however, resulted in the capture of seven youngsters.

One youth, Ralph Wagner, was so severely cut in the melee that he was taken to a hospital. All the combatants ranged in ages from fourteen to eighteen.

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., Jan. 24—The war finance corporation will establish immediately, a branch at Sioux Falls, according to Eugene Meyer, managing director of the corporation.

Meyer made the announcement after a conference with South Dakota bankers here last night.

The purpose of the branch here is to bring the resources and assistance of the war finance corporation in closer contact with South Dakota banks, he said.

The branch agency will be in charge of a group of Sioux Falls bankers.

The action constitutes the first step by the federal government to help agriculture in the northwest to its feet.

PARMELEE FOUND GUILTY

Former President of Defunct Bank of Plattsmouth Convicted of Embezzlement.

PLATTSMOUTH, Neb., Jan. 24.—Charles C. Parmelee, former president of the defunct Bank of Cass county, was found guilty of embezzling a note for $1,500 by a jury in district court here last night. The jury deliberated five hours.

Parmelee, fifth of those indicted by a special grand jury here Thanksgiving day to be convicted, still faces two charges of forgery which will be tried at the next term of court.

The embezzlement charge grew out of a note which was turned over to the banker by Luke L. Wiles in part payment of a $5,000 indebtedness owed Wiles by Mrs. Daisy Douglas.

A Winter Economy

Slush! Ice! Snow! Rain! Soggy under foot. Drizzling overhead. A shopping trip or a social call under such weather conditions is fraught with many irritations.

Why not summon a safe, clean, warm YELLOW CAB and forget that it is Winter? One of our reliable, experienced drivers will pick you up at your door and deliver you quickly and safely to your destination at a charge less than a box of cold pills.

YELLOW CAB affords the maximum of convenience and comfort when the weather is at its worst. It is an ordeal to get your car started these cold mornings.

Wouldn't it be cheaper in the long run to leave your private car in the garage and use a YELLOW CAB?

Three months of winter driving almost certainly means a new paint job, an expense of anywhere from $50 to $150. A frozen radiator is a constant source of danger. Congealed oil may cause serious bearing trouble.

LENIN'S BODY IS IN COFFIN

THOUSANDS PAY LAST TRIBUTE TO DEAD LEADER.

Twenty Below Weather in Moscow During Night Does Not Deter Line of Mourners at Noble's Club.

MOSCOW, Jan. 24.—In the great banqueting hall of what was once the noble's club, rendezvous of Russia's nobility, the body of Nikolai Lenin reposed in a simple coffin upon a humble couch today, while his comrades of the revolution paid him last honors as they passed slowly in single file.

The face of the dead premier was calm and waxen and in the play of brilliant lights, it seemed to wear an expectant look. Soldiers of the red army with fixed bayonets stood at rigid attention or kept order with hushed voices.

The line of mourners was endless. Scores of thousands stood in the bitter cold and snow; it was 20 degrees below zero during the night. The line extended six deep for many blocks and grew constantly as thousands more joined in the hope of a last look at Lenin.

Inside the hall the mourners shuffled forward silently, many weeping.

Commissars took turns in the death watch; that of Foreign Minister Tchetcheirn came at 3:45 a. m. today.

Word from the Caucasus was to the effect that Leon Trotsky probably will be unable to come to Moscow for the funeral Saturday. The war minister is ill and has a high temperature.

ELEMENTARY ECONOMICS—III. Consumption.

YESTERDAY we viewed economics from the point of view of the producer. Our discussion to-day will be from the point of view of that much-sought-after-individual, the consumer.

Production and consumption are in reality two sides of the same thing. All of us are producers of utilities (for some eight or ten hours a day), and we are also consumers. While we do not consume what we produce, by reason of the division of labor, what we produce is consumed by some one, and consumption must be regarded as the end of production.

We may define consumption as the use of goods and services in the satisfaction of human wants. Thus in this sense you may consume your dinner, a musical comedy or a ride in the subway, for they all serve to satisfy your wants. Consumption which yields a direct satisfaction of wants, such as the above, we call final consumption. Some articles and services are consumed in the process of manufacture, such as oil by an engine, the services of a riveter, &c. This we term productive consumption.

We consume to satisfy our desires. Wants then are the beginning of economic processes. If goods or services were not wanted they would not be forthcoming. Human needs are the real explanation of consumption. Human wants have two primary characteristics. In the first place, at any one time each separate want can be completely satisfied. How many after eating a hearty Thanksgiving dinner would desire to begin all over? It might be that you would desire an auto ride but certainly you would not care for food for several hours, for that desire has been satisfied. The intensity of our desire for a commodity diminishes the more of it we have. The second outstanding characteristic of human wants is their variety. As we have progressed from savagery to civilization the variety of things we desire has expanded enormously. The savage would probably not appreciate a fine home equipped with comfortable furniture, Oriental rugs, beautiful chinaware, exquisite linen, soft beds, and a shiny, tile bathroom; he would prefer his tepee and life in the open. We moderns enjoy the outdoors too but we have developed desires unknown to primitive folks.

It is because we have wants that we consume and it is because we consume that goods have value. By value is meant the importance we attach to one article as compared with the importance we attach to another. Other things being equal, we attach greater importance to goods which are scarce than to those which are more abundant. Air is indispensable to human life and yet because it exists in such abundance it is a free good and does not possess value. Diamonds are scarce relative to demand and possess great value. Since value rises from desire it is subjective, a matter of individual feelings and preferences. The price of goods (the amount of money for which a unit of a commodity exchanges) is a resultant of the subjective valuations of all persons desiring this commodity relative to its supply. This leads us into a discussion of demand and supply.

By demand we mean the desire for a certain quantity of goods at a certain price coupled with the ability to pay the price asked. The hungry urchin looking in at the baker's window may greatly desire the cookies displayed, but he does not actually demand them unless he hands over his pennies to the storekeeper. In purchasing the cookies the urchin has expressed his subjective valuations, he has shown that he preferred these to the movies or to a soda. Some commodities possess what we term an inelastic demand. The demand for necessities, salt, flour, &c., is relatively inelastic, the demand does not vary greatly with changes in price. The demand for articles of luxury, furs, watches, &c., varies greatly with changes in price and is quite elastic.

By supply is meant the quantity of goods offered for sale at a certain time and at a given price. The goods which the speculator has hoarded away in a warehouse awaiting a rise in price would not constitute a part of the supply in this sense. They are not offered for sale at a given price.

The supply of goods offered on the market may be produced under competitive or monopolistic conditions. If they are produced under competitive conditions the supply forthcoming will depend upon the price consumers are willing to pay relative to costs of production. If the market price rules much higher than costs of production the supply offered on the market will increase. If the market price rules below costs of production (as in the case of farm products) the amount offered for sale will sooner or later decline. Monopolists reap their gains through limiting the supply relative to demand. One reason for the high price of diamonds is the fact that the production of diamonds is in the hands of a monopoly. If ever a process is discovered which would enable people to manufacture large diamonds successfully the power of this group could be broken and the price of diamonds would fall. A monopolist aims to limit supply relative to demand, and for this reason monopoly price is higher than competitive.

The price of an article will be fixed at that point which will equalize supply and demand. Not in all cases, however, do supply and demand fix the price at a definite point. In the case of a second-hand automobile, for instance, there is room for considerable latitude of opinion and for much haggling. In the case of the great commodities of the world market, such as wheat, cotton, iron, the price is set quite accurately by market conditions, by competitive forces.

In the past two articles we have treated of economics from the point of view of the producer and of the consumer. To-morrow we shall discuss exchanges, or the way goods pass from producers into the hands of consumers.

CONTRACT OF MINERS UP

SCALES COMMITTEE CONSIDERS NEW PROPOSAL.

Some Resolutions Ask Renewal of Present Agreement and Others Ask for 10 to 25 Per Cent Increase.

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 24.—Proposals for the new working contract for bituminous miners were under consideration today by the scales committee of the united mine workers' convention.

The committee last night went over resolutions from local unions dealing with wage and working conditions.

Some of the resolutions asked a renewal of the wage contract on the present basis, while others demand increases ranging from 10 to 25 per cent.

The committee itself is divided into two groups on the question of an increase.

It was said one group wants to go to the Jacksonville wage conference with demands for an increase of probably 10 per cent to gain concessions from the operators on other points.

Other members of the committee, it is said, believe the miners will strengthen their hand by cutting out the "bargaining points" and ask for a renewal of the present scale.

The convention yesterday extended its policy for nationalization of basic industry by adopting a resolution asking for eventual nationalization of railroads and coal mines.

The miners had endorsed government ownership of the mines at previous conventions, but it was the first time the railroads were included in the proposal.

John L. Lewis, international president, administered a second defeat to the radicals when he secured approval of his action in removing the charter of Nova Scotia miners last year.

Lewis explained the charter was removed because the miners affiliated with the trade union movement of soviet Russia and called an outlaw strike.

ASK WOMAN FOR STORY

MRS. LELAND MAY TESTIFY FOR HERSELF.

Husband Seeking Divorce Requests Public Fogiveness of Wife—Congregation Pray for Pastor.

CHICAGO, Jan. 24.—Mrs. Charlotte Leland, central figure in the sensational divorce action involving Rev. Carl D. Case, pastor of the aristocratic First Baptist church of Oak Park, has been asked to tell her story of the affair when the hearing re-opens before Judge Charles M. Foell today.

Following publication of her "fourteen page confession," admitting intimacies with her pastor, Mrs. Leland was asked to verify or repudiate her confession.

In the "confession," which her husband, Albert R. Leland, said was pinned to his pillow, Mrs. Leland admitted she "deliberately kissed Rev. Mr. Case on the lips," after the pastor had "kissed her on the forehead and cheeks."

"I have before categorically denied all the facts in this so-called confession," Rev. Mr. Case said. "There is no use for me to say anything further. I expect to come out of court vindicated to the fullest extent."

Every member of Rev. Mr. Case's congregation has been asked to pause at 10 a. m. today and offer silent prayer "that victory may come to our pastor."

The request was made at a prayer meeting at the church last night in which several of Rev. Mr. Case's parishioners prayed aloud that their pastor's name be cleared in court today.

Meanwhile, Leland, who petitioned the court for divorce on the grounds of his wife's "confession," today asked the public to forgive Mrs. Leland.

"I hope that the Christian public will extend to her the sympathy and opportunity which a truly repentant woman is entitled to receive in order to re-establish herself in the community and the church.

"I have not asked anyone or any body of people to pass resolutions of confidence in me. My standing and unquestioned integrity and years of service in the Oak Park Baptist church renders that unnecessary.

"I am willing to wait and abide by the decision of the court competent to pass judgment as to the law and evidence.

Resolutions, expressing confidence in the character of Rev. Mr. Case were previously adopted by his congregation and the pastors' union of Oak Park.

The prayer meeting in support of the pastor was attended by a throng of church workers. It was led by Dr. John A. Earl, editor of "The Baptist."

Speaking of Christ and the suffering and crucifixion which He suffered, Dr. Earl compared the sufferings of Rev. Mr. Case to those of Christ.

More than a dozen men and women, deacons, elders, and others active in the affairs of the church, arose and followed Dr. Earl in prayers for the pastor.

The hearing today is a continuation of the proceedings started last week when Leland asked the court for a divorce, charging his wife had confessed misconduct with the pastor. The court already had indicated the decree would be granted when Rev. Mr. Case heard of the accusations and asked a continuance.

Rev. Mr. Case's request was granted and his attorney, Frederick A Brown, was appointed friend of the court with full power to examine witnesses and testimony.

Brown will endeavor to prove to the court that Mrs. Leland is not responsible for her "confession."

Mrs. Leland, Brown said, suffered from "hallucinations."

"This woman may have loved Dr. Case," Brown said, "but her idea that her love was reciprocated was a mental delusion."

COAL MAN SAYS JOKE

Herbert Lyon Smith Must Pay Madeline Traverse $72,489 for Contract Breach.

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—"It was a joke on me," Herbert Lyon Smith, owner of coal and oil lands in West Virginia, told Justice William Harman Black in explaining his business relations with Madeline Traverse, motion picture actress.

Miss Traverse obtained a verdict of $72,489 in her suit against the coal man, whom, she said, agreed to back her in promoting the Traverse film enterprise.

The actress sued for $225,500, alleging non-fulfillment of a verbal contract. She said Smith was to pay her $3,500 a week and $1,000 a week for expenses.

DEMAND BOND FROM DINES

Another Chance for Denver Oil Man to Remember How and by Whom He Was Shot.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 24.—Courtland S. Dines, Denver oil operator, host to Mabel Normand and Edna Purviance, screen actresses, will be given another chance to remember how and by whom he was shot at the climax of his fateful New Year's party.

A bench warrant ordering Dines to appear before Justice Walter Hanby next Wednesday was to be served on him today and a $5,000 bond to assure his being present will be demanded.

A guard may be stationed near his hospital bedroom to prevent him fleeing from the state, should he be so minded.

This rigid action was determined by Justice Hanby upon recommendation of District Attorney Asa Keyes who declared in a formal statement to the justice that Dines' inability to recall any of the events connected with the shooting appeared to him an attempt to "cover up material facts in connection with said shooting."

The decision to serve Dines with another order to appear in court came late yesterday after Mrs. Edith Burns, Miss Normand's companion had been questioned at her bedside, without adding materially to the meager evidence secured from other witnesses

The Scottsbluff region, and the Sarpy and Douglas county section has less sheep on feed, while the Humboldt section and the balance of the state have more on hand than a year ago. The movement from the markets to feeders shows a total of 422,000 sheep and lambs for the period August to December, inclusive, against 418,000 head a year ago. However, this does not include the direct movement, or the small percentage of locally produced lambs. The latter is small while the former is large.

There is a decrease of 4 per cent in the number of sheep and lambs on feed in the corn belt and western states, the total number on January 1 being 4,120,000 head compared to 4,280,000 head a year ago. About 2,065,000 sheep are in the corn belt. The corn belt states east of the Mississippi river have 70,000 less sheep than a year ago and those west of the river 30,000 more. Early marketing was heavier this season than last.

Western states have 120,000 less sheep than a year ago, the total being 2,050,000 head against 2,170,000 head a year ago. Colorado has 1,400,000 sheep on feed compared to 1,500,000 sheep a year ago. Utah has 40,000 more. There are 100,000 less sheep on feed in the total of Idaho, Nevada and California, the latter having only 50 per cent of the number on hand a year ago. Montana and Wyoming have 50,000 more sheep on feed than a year ago Scottsbluff, Neb., has considerably less.

Child-birth

WHEN the Little One arrives, you can have that moment more free from suffering than you have perhaps imagined. An eminent physician, expert in this science, has shown the way. It was he who first produced the great remedy, "Mother's Friend." Mrs. C. J. Hartman, Scranton, Pa., says:

"With my first two children I had a doctor and a nurse and then they had to use instruments, but with my last two children I used 'Mother's Friend' and had only a nurse; we had no time to get a doctor because I wasn't very sick—only about ten or fifteen minutes." Use "Mother's Friend" as our mothers and grandmothers did. Don't wait, start today, and meanwhile write to Bradfield Regulator Co., BA-75, Atlanta, Ga., for a free illustrated book containing information every expectant mother should have. "Mother's Friend" is sold by all drug stores.

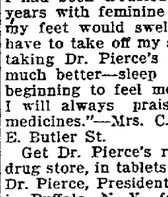
MY DAUGHTER WOULD CRY AT EVERYTHING

Nervous and Irritable. By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Became Entirely Normal

Clinton, Wisconsin.—"My daughter was in a very run-down condition, and was irritable, and would cry at every little thing she was so weak and nervous. As Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had helped me when I was a girl I gave it to her to build her up, and the results were all that we could wish for. I wish that every mother with growing girls would try it for these troubles girls often have. I had taken it myself before my girl was born, and she was one of the nicest babies any one could wish to have. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to women and girls and cannot praise it too highly." — Mrs. I. A. HOLFORD, Box 48, Clinton, Wisconsin.



Mothers can depend upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve their daughters of those troubles they so often have. They know from experience the value of the Vegetable Compound in the treatment of these complaints and many, like Mrs. Holford, give it to their daughters.

DORIS DISCOVERS A SECRET.

ONE day as Doris wandered through the meadows, she came across the dearest little flowers tucked among the crevices of rocks.

The tiny blossoms, which dangled from slender stems, looked like tiny fairy breeches. They were white, faintly tipped with yellow.

Doris was just about to gather a handful when a tiny voice stopped her:

"Oh, please, little Doris, don't pick my pretty blossoms," begged the tiny voice, "for I've promised every one of them to the Good Fairy. Please don't pick them."

"Certainly I won't, unless you want me to," laughed Doris and she sat down beside the lovely, slender plant. "But what in the world does the Good Fairy want with your blossoms?"

"Can you keep a secret?" asked the tiny plant. Doris nodded her

"Please Don't, Little Doris."

yellow curls. "Then I'll tell you. The Good Fairy is having a party in the meadow to-night. She has asked that I loan her my jewelry and I promised her I would."

"But what has that to do with your pretty blossoms, I'd like to know?" laughed Doris. She couldn't see anything but the tiny white, breeches-like blossoms. "Where do you keep your jewels, anyway?"

"Of course," sighed the little plant sadly, "I guess you're just like the rest of the folks. Hardly a week passes when I do not hear someone cry out, 'Oh, look at the Dutchman's breeches!'

"If they only knew how it hurt my pride, they wouldn't call me 'Dutchman's breeches.' Of course at the first glance, one does think of breeches. The other day the Good Fairy passed just after someone had made that remark about my blossoms and she found me in tears."

"But they do look like Dutchman's breeches," insisted Doris.

"Certainly they do," replied the tiny plant. "But they look like eardrops, too, don't they?"

"Upon my word!" Doris laughed. "They certainly do look like eardrops now that you've called my attention to it."

"Well, that's what Good Fairy said. She's giving this party to-night and intends to wear a pair to show folks how lovely they look."

Tiny Plant shook out her blossoms quite proudly. "Fairy Eardrops is a much sweeter name for my flower. Don't you think so?"

"Indeed I do," replied Doris. "And from now on, I shall tell every child that I know to call you 'Fairy Eardrops.' I like that name so much better than 'Dutchman's Breeches.' Is that the reason you hide here in the deep woods—because you feel badly about your name?"

"Oh, no," Tiny Plant laughed. "We Dutchman's Breeches—or, better, Fairy Ear-drops—always choose the deep woods to live in because we love cool nooks and the drip of dew from the trees. You'll find flowers that grow in the deep woods need very little light. We don't require much light, you see, because our blossoms are so pale."

Just then Doris heard her mama calling, so bidding her friend goodby, she hurried home.

MY HUSBAND'S LOVE

Adele Garrison's New Phase of

Revelations of a Wife

Copyright, 1924, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

With Success So Near—Failure!

IT was Dr. Braithwaite who answered Mother Graham's question. Stepping in front of Dicky, who appeared only too glad to efface himself, the big surgeon bent down and took his mother-in-law's wrinkled hand tenderly in his.

"William died with the pen in his hand, Mother, before he could sign the will."

My mother-in-law stared at him for a long second, as if trying to understand him. Then she leaned back against her pillows and closed her eyes as if she were utterly spent. I saw Dr. Braithwaite's long slender fingers slip to her wrist, and in a few seconds he nodded reassuringly to us, with an accompanying signal for silence. Indeed, I think there was no one of our group who wished to speak.

Lillian and I shared Mother Graham's consternation at the news my brother-in-law had just given her, for we knew what unpleasant complications involving the guardianship of the Harrison family might follow the adjustment of the dead man's affairs, and I fancy Dicky and his sister were living over again the tragic scene in the hospital room at which Dr. Braithwaite had hinted.

The seconds ticked themselves away interminably on the mantel clock until my mother-in-law, with a hint of returning color to her cheeks, opened her eyes, and looked sternly at all of us.

Mother Graham Scored.

"Richard must have bungled things," she said. "I ought to have gone down there myself, but I am tied hand and foot by this miserable heart of mine. Tell me everything about it, Edwin, so that we can see what is best to be done. There's one thing you may depend on, though. No one gets those children except over my old dead body. They're with me, now to stay."

I mentally applauded her, even as I shot a furtive glance at Harriet Braithwaite to see her reaction to this sweeping statement. My mother-in-law, even in the face of the crushing blow to her plans which she had just received, was able to score a point in the contest which she was pretending to wage against her daughter for the custody of the orphaned children. To Harriet Braithwaite, however, ignorant of her mother's real purpose, the ultimatum was like a personal challenge, and though she said nothing, I think because she saw that her husband was about to speak, her flashing eyes and her firmly set lips told me that, as her mother had shrewdly planned, opposition was crystallizing her determination to have the children at any cost.

"You must not blame Richard, Mother," Dr. Braithwaite began firmly—he is the only one of Mother Graham's children or "in-laws" who ever dares to contradict her. "He did exactly what you wished. We took an ironclad will down with us—"

Pen in His Hand.

"But did you get it directly to the hospital?" Mother Graham interrupted. "I know Richard"—this with an artistic note of contemptuous weariness—"he is such a stickler for the proper procedure, so afraid he won't do everything in exactly the right way, that if he had five seconds to save his life from a burning building he'd take four of them to adjust his necktie."

Dr. Braithwaite's answer was as gravely answered as if she had just said the most solemn thing in the world.

"We drove directly to the hospital," he said, "and were admitted to William's room at once. But—he was unconscious, and remained so until a few minutes before his death."

He paused, and in the tense silence which followed, I think we all felt as if we were standing by that tragic death bed.

"His first words when he recognized us," the surgeon went on, "were to beg us to send for a lawyer that he might draw up a will leaving the children to—the joint guardianship of Harriet, Richard and you."

My mother-in-law shot a quick triumphant glance at her daughter then turned her face toward her son-in-law.

"The will had already been drawn up on that fashion, and when we told this to William he was much gratified. He evidently knew he had but a few moments left, for he asked the physician in charge to give him a stimulant that he might be able to sign the will."

"'You know, Edwin, what will happen if I don't sign this,' he said to me as I put the pen in his hand. I hope his words were not a prophecy, poor fellow, for they were the last words he ever spoke. The pen was on the paper, but had not yet traced a single line when he collapsed."

"They'll be a prophecy, all right," my mother said grimly. "Those Harrisons are like bulldogs. But how did you get the children away?"

"When William was taken to the hospital he ordered that no one save Elizabeth's people be notified," Edwin returned. "If they haven't seen it in the papers they do not know yet that he is dead. So we waited only for the funeral, and taking just the most necessary clothing for the children, left the house and its contents in the care of one of William's business friends and hurried up here."

HEROINES OF HISTORY

Significant Incidents in the Lives of Famous Women

By MARK STUYVESANT

The Great Artist Whose Talent Was Discovered Early.

"THOU wilt be a painter if ever there was one." These were the words of a father to his little seven-year-old daughter, who before she reached womanhood was one of the world's greatest artists. For this little child, who on this evening showed to her father a picture of a man which she had just drawn, was Marie Anne Elizabeth Vigee—known to history as Vigee Le Brun.

This same little girl had such a passion for painting that she drew constantly—on the pavement, on the sand and on every scrap of paper which came near her little hand. She simply had to paint—it was to her as natural as breathing or sleeping.

Fortunate it was, too, for the Vigee family that Elizabeth had this talent. Because, when she was but twelve years old, her father died. And it was through Elizabeth's paintings, which she sold, that she was able to help with the household expenses and purchase her younger brother's school books.

Always working to improve herself, Elizabeth spent much time in the Louvre and the Palace of the Luxembourg, copying pictures by Van Dyke, Rubens and Rembrandt. And all the while Elizabeth was growing prettier and more charming.

Naturally, many young men sought her hand in marriage, but she did not feel inclined to marry until the time when her home became unbearable through her mother's second marriage, to a man who spent all of Elizabeth's earnings.

It was then that she consented to marry Monsieur Le Brun, a man of no particular interest, except that he owned a collection of very fine masterpieces. It has been hinted that Monsieur Le Brun, being most practical, regarded his young bride's talent as a most valuable marriage dower.

Unfortunately Elizabeth's husband spent her earnings so quickly that she was obliged to take pupils. But soon her fame spread. Orders came thick and fast. She gave up teaching and when a command from the Queen, Marie Antoinette, came, her fortune was made.

Through her sittings to Madame Le Brun, Marie Antoinette became very fond of the charming young artist and a delightful friendship resulted. Madame Le Brun was received at court and was on the most intimate terms with the royal family.

This caused her to become the fashion in Paris, where she entertained the best French society at her home and in the most charming manner.

But nothing meant as much to this brilliant young woman as her baby girl, who was born at the time when she was first asked to paint the Queen. We are all familiar with the famous portrait of herself, painted by herself, with her little girl in her arms. This portrait shows the sweet warmth of the artist's nature and her joy of motherhood.

But a great disappointment came to Madame Le Brun when her daughter made an unfortunate marriage, after which she rarely saw her mother. The daughter did not live up to the standards set by her splendid mother, and when death took her in her early womanhood her mother's grief was tragic.

However, work and success—for she painted at every court in Europe and was made a member of the French Academy—healed the wound and Madame Le Brun in time regained the gay, light hearted, almost bovish spirit which was hers.

During the Revolution, Madame Le Brun fled to Italy and from there visited many nations of Europe, where she was received like a queen.

On her return to Paris, Madame Le Brun was acclaimed with public demonstrations wherever she went. She lived to be a very old woman, and died in 1842.

Vigee Le Brun was one of the greatest artists of all time. She gave to the world nearly a thousand beautiful pictures through which her memory is cherished and revered.

Advice to Girls

By ANNIE LAURIE.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:
I am nineteen years old and am married to a young man whom I love dearly. My very best friend told me that she also loves him and on every occasion she flirts with him and makes sly, insinuating remarks concerning me.

I have told my husband about her, but he only laughs at me and does not heed. He also insists upon my maintaining my relationship with her. I think he is wrong.

What shall I do? HOPEFUL.

HOPEFUL: I fear that if you discontinue your friendship with her, your husband will think the matter really serious. Under the circumstances, you can scarcely be intimate or chummy with her, but it will be wise to keep up some sort of a friendship. Ignore and do not worry about her flirtations and remarks, my dear. Just keep yourself attractive and charming!

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:
I am a girl in my teens and am deeply in love with a young man. I have gone with him steadily for a year and now a girl with an uncertain reputation is trying to take him away from me. I wish you could tell me how I can win his love back. FORSAKEN.

FORSAKEN: Do not worry about this other girl, my dear. Continue to be kind and sweet to the young man and work to hold his interest. If you fail, put him out of your thoughts. You realize, of course, that it is his privilege to have other friends, and that since you are not engaged, you should have other friends, too.

Annie Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. Letters to Miss Laurie should be addressed to her, in care of this office.

HOME-MAKING HELPS

"Everything About the House Helps to Make the Home"

By WANDA BARTON

Helpful Points for the Household Buyer.

THE question of household buying is always open to discussion. Whether to buy in bulk or buy daily is most frequently decided by the amount of available storage space. The distance of the home from shopping centres also figures in the decision.

People who live in the country have no choice in the matter, for bulk buying it must be, whether the goods are charged or cash is paid. Distance, lack of shopping time, plenty of storage space and the daily use of quantities of supplies affect the problem.

The modern housewife, who lives within a reasonable distance from the shops, buys daily, often many times a day, using her telephone as her messenger. This is one way of managing, but if she fails to put down everything she orders on a slip and make it tally with what she gets, she is likely to have a surprise when the bill comes in. This will be quite as much her fault as it is the shopkeeper's. She causes him a great deal of extra bookkeeping and delivery service by her method, and in busy places mistakes are apt to creep in. Had she been businesslike, making her list and completing all her plans and needs before 'phoning, one delivery would have been sufficient. And this would have saved everyone time and annoyance.

There is always some spot in the most crowded place that can be utilized for storage and the woman who realizes this will make a place for her things, thereby saving time energy, patience and, we venture to say, money as well, if she is an expert buyer. One's manner of living does not change materially from month to month, and the extras are usually little luxuries required for some especial holiday occasion. So it does not require a serious amount of calculation to know just about what will be needed for a week or a month. To be able to take down can, package or bottle as it is needed gives one a prosperous feeling, an accumulative condition of mind better for finances than the lean feeling of always being out of things.

Bulk buying has many advantages. A dozen cans of vegetables carry the usual discount. Sugar in bulk is sold at the price of the day as the wholesaler knows it. The charge for vinegar or molasses jugs, large cracker tins and so on is refunded on the return of the articles. All goods are so beautifully packed these days that breakage seldom occurs, and if your order is clearly checked off when completed, very few mistakes are made.

Mistakes are costly and the merchant, realizing this, puts someone on out of town orders who understands the work and is apt to check it up accurately. The matter of having twenty or forty pounds of sugar in the house is no reason why you should use one grain more than if you had a five-pound carton. And the same principle applies to the other buying as well.

It is good business to buy in bulk and pay cash. In the country Winter vegetables and greens, apples and other edibles grown at home take the place of the green grocer's stock. In the city, no matter how carefully we buy in bulk, we must still depend on the green grocer for our daily fruit and green stuffs, though even these are provided for more closely and satisfactorily by one or two trips a week to a large market or wholesale produce centre.

Housekeeping is a business like any other business and requires careful calculation and management. Women as a rule have not taken the task of home-buying seriously enough. The family prosperity is often hindered by the poor disposition of a man's income. Out-go and income must balance if things are to be harmonious. Each family is, or should be, a law unto itself. Its needs should be supplied first and its luxuries should be regulated by what is left in the budget.

The Daughters of the Revolution is a society which was organized at New York in 1891. It is a hereditary patriotic society and its original members were largely composed of those who withdrew from the Daughters of the American Revolution because that society admitted to membership women of collateral descent. The present aims of the organization are more strenuous. It admits only women who are lineal descendants of an ancestor who was a military or naval officer, soldier, sailor or marine, in actual service under the authority of any of the 13 colonies and remained always loyal to such authority." The object of the Daughters of the Revolution is similar to the Daughters of the American Revolution but its membership is much smaller.

YOUR HEALTH

Intestinal Obstructions Require Careful Treatment

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

DR. COPELAND

ANYTHING interfering with the normal discharges from the body is sure to produce grave results. Failure of the skin functions, stoppage of the kidney action and obstruction of the bowels—all of these are serious experiences.

Intestinal obstruction may be unsuspected until there comes on an attack of terrific pain. At first there are spasms of pain, occasional but severe. The paroxysms become more frequent and it is not long before the pain is continuous.

The pain differs from the agony of appendicitis in that it is in the middle line of the body. In inflammation of the appendix the pain is likely to be on the right side of the abdomen in the region between the umbilicus and the hip bone. This is one-sided pain and much lower down than are the symptoms which are found in intestinal obstruction.

Of course if the lower bowel—the large intestine—is involved, the pain may be low down, but even then it is usually in the middle line of the body. There is a vulgar expression which will describe it—"belly ache." But pretty soon it is more than an ache—it becomes excruciating pain.

Complete constipation is to be expected. The water of an enema may return with some fecal matter, but when everything below the obstruction has been removed the water returns clear.

The third symptom is vomiting. The material first expelled is like all vomited matter, but pretty soon it is green with bile. Then comes a fluid, brown in color and fecal in odor.

The obstruction dams up the intestinal contents. As they ferment, the gases accumulate and produce increasing distention of the abdomen.

The effects of this trouble on the general system are profound. The face is pinched, the pulse is rapid and faint, and cold sweat bathes the skin. Pretty soon there may be more or less fever and great thirst.

The treatment depends on the origin of the obstruction. The most common cause is impaction of the feces. To get rid of the trouble do not make use of purgatives or cathartics.

Employ large quantities of warm water, injecting it very slowly into the bowel. Have the patient lie down on his back, elevating the hips. Take great pains to use no force. To this end the fountain syringe should be raised very slightly above the level of the body.

Hot fomentations may be applied to the abdomen. Dip a large towel in water hot as can be borne. Cover this spread a dry towel. Have frequent changes, keeping the water hot. A few drops of turpentine added to the water may be helpful.

There is always need of careful medical attention and even surgical treatment may be required. On this account there must be no failure to call your doctor at once.

F. L. Q.—Will you kindly restate your formula of resorcin and glycerine for the treatment of dandruff?

A.—The lotion referred to contains 15 grains each of resorcin and glycerine to the ounce of water. This should be applied to the scalp with a medicine dropper. Resorcin should not be used on light hair, as it darkens it.

Diary of a Fashion Model

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

She Chats About a Cape Any Woman Would Be Delighted to Own.

GABY and I have been doing quite a bit of shopping together lately.

Gaby insisted it was a good season for bargains, and we set out to find a few.

"You see, my theory is that it gives one so many ideas to shop around," she explained to me. "You see lovely things anyway."

"Even if you buy nothing," I added.

"Of course," Gaby answered.

"Now I like the shops where you can go and look and not feel that you have to buy," she added.

"Yes," I agreed with her. "It's a pleasure to go into shops where they seem glad to show you what they have, whether you buy something every time or not."

"Here's a shop of that type," I said, pausing before the window of a most attractive shop.

"Just the place to look at evening wraps!" Gaby exclaimed.

"You know I'm looking for a wrap for evening," she told me.

"This shop has a reputation for being quite expensive," I whispered as we went in.

"I know," Gaby answered. "But they have glorious things and when they have sales they mark them down a lot."

There were fur coats downstairs and we took the elevator up to the second floor, where cloth coats and evening coats were to be had.

Gaby asked to see evening wraps and the saleswoman went out to find a model to wear it.

I [illegible] myself that I'll be [illegible] in a minute," Gaby whispered.

When a lovely tall brunette came in we rose an evening wrap we both agreed it was so lovely.

I said I [illegible] and Gaby said that I really had no idea [illegible] as that.

"Did you ever see anything so lovely as the way the dark blue of the velvet brings out the blue tone of the silver cloth?" Gaby asked.

"And aren't those brilliants wonderful?" I asked. The slit where each circular inset joined the cape was outlined in a glittering design of rhinestones.

"This cape must be a million dollars, because it has an ermine collar too," I whispered to Gaby.

We looked at some others, but none of them was as beautiful as the blue cape.

"Just my luck to find a bargain that is still too expensive to think about," Gaby wailed as we left. "Even the marked-down price is way out of my reach. I'll have to make one."

BOND ISSUE IS APPROVED

SOUTHERN NEBRASKA POWER COMPANY GETS AN ORDER.

Commission Allows It Twenty Years' Time in Which to Make Good the Loss of Its Superior Dam by Flood.

The Southern Nebraska Power company was given permission by the state railway commission Thursday to issue and sell $300,000 of 7 per cent first mortgage bonds, to be sold to net the company not less than 90 per cent of par.

The money is to be used to retire existing bonded indebtedness and other debts incurred for past construction, paying for the rebuilding of the dam at Superior now in process of construction, paying of future new construction and additional working capital.

The company is required to set up 3 per cent a year for depreciation, charges against this fund to be made for replacements only as distinguished from current and incidental maintenance. The bond discount is to be amortized evenly during the life of the bonds, ten years, as a charge against operating income and that the loss on the dam, in the amount of $55,000, shall be amortized thruout a period not exceeding twenty years.

The company has been rapidly expanding, and now serves a long string of towns in the southern part of the state. It has close to a million dollars worth of property. It has outstanding common stock of $165,000, preferred stock of $348,950 and underlying bonds of $57,000. These bonds will be taken up by the new issue.

The company has several times been before the commission with financing propositions, a condition due to its rapid expansion, thru construction and by purchase. The commission was impelled to give the company twenty years in which to make up the $55,000 loss occasioned by the dam at Superior going out under flood conditions. The headgates and a portion of the concrete work was all that was left.

RADIO GOSSIP.

WHAS, Louisville, presented a group of vocal solos that were entertaining. They are comparatively close and one can get considerable volume when using a loud speaker for their programs. They will broadcast a fifty-minute concert by the Kentucky Aces at 7:30 Thursday. Their wave is 400 meters. WDAF, Kansas City, gave a classical concert by the pupils of Mrs. Marjorie Rose Ryan. WOC was on the air with vocal and instrumental solos including an organ recital. At 8 o'clock Thursday they will have a program by the Palmer School of Chiropractic orchestra. WMAU, Chicago, were pleasing many with the Daily News orchestra. The quality and clearness of the music they broadcast is little short of perfect. Another station having an orchestra as the main feature was WOS, Jefferson City. After an actual count we found that there were at least eight orchestras playing for the unseen but appreciative audience. KYW was coming in fine with a group of vocal solos. There will be ten dance orchestras going tonight so no one should have any trouble getting one of them. KSD will have a pianist, a violinist and a few tenor solos for you if you do not care for the lighter music. WBAP will have a concert by artists from Howard Payne college. WGY presents a drama, "The Passing of the Third Floor" at 7 p. m. Their wave is 380 meters. WMC will entertain with the Chisca hotel philharmonic orchestra at 8:30. WOAW will broadcast a community program by Falls City artists. The dance music will be available from CKAC, KGW, FKO, WCAP, WDAP, WEAF, WJAX, WJZ and WOR.

When making a set at home it often occurs to the builder that he can just twist the two wires together whenever he wants a splice, and thus save the trouble of soldering. As a result the set is found to be either unoperative or full of noise, clicks, squeals, etc., that make the concerts unenjoyable. When building a set it is far best to do it right the first time as satisfactory operation is never obtained until things are right. It has been estimated that over half of the interference commonly thought to be static is really due to something in the set itself. One loose connection in the grid or plate circuit of the detector tube will be multiplied by two stages of amplification so that one can hardly stand to have the receivers over the ears.

DERBY BACK IN FASHION

Old "Bowler" to Be Peg on Which Men Hang Clothing Styles This Year.

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—The jolly old "Bowler," men, is the peg on which to hang your clothing styles this year.

Take it as the advice of L. C. Tyler, chairman of the fashion committee at the forty-fifth annual convention of merchant tailor designers meeting here today, that the derby is back for a long run in topping off the fashion plate dressed man.

While the derby is primarily a dress hat, according to Tyler, it likewise is a conservative headgear and men's clothing styles will revolve about it as a basis for several years.

As for other style features, Tyler declared:

"Fashion leaning more toward conservatism as to meticulousness and formality in evening dress.

"Business clothes will be far more loose fitting. Trousers will not pinch the knee. Pockets will be spacious. Any extremes will have a tendency to over-fullness rather than to form fitting tightness. Lapels will be larger and waistcoats will be double breasted."

LATE NEWS OF YESTERDAY

PAYS TRIBUTE TO PIONEERS OF STATE

Congressman C. H. Sloan Tells of Early Days in Nebraska in Address Before Pioneer Association.

Congressman Charles H. Sloan, of Geneva, gave a tribute Wednesday afternoon at the meeting of the Nebraska territorial pioneer association, to the men and women who came to Nebraska in early days and stayed to enjoy the fruits of their faith. He said he was born in Iowa, but came to Nebraska as a young man. He declared there was no parallel in the world to the progress made by Nebraska and the wonders wrought in the last sixty years.

"Nebraska started with less advantages than any other state," said Mr. Sloan. The pioneers had found the buffalo ranges treeless, abounding with savages, lacking mines and waterpower and with nothing apparently to invite settlers. Yet in the course of sixty or seventy years, they have made it one of the most productive of states. They have caused villages and cities to arise and have set in motion the wheels of a thousand industries.

"In gathering in the rewards you now have," said Mr. Sloan to the pioneers, you worshipped first; you did not neglect to erect churches; you did not forget school systems. We stand among the states highest for literacy. Our greatest institutions of learning are scarcely surpassed by the older states. Nebraska's gold is in her soil. Corn is king and wheat is queen of the northwest. These things have made us one of the richest of the states."

Mr. Sloan said that he was once interrupted while delivering an address on Nebraska by a man who asked if it were not true that large numbers had left Nebraska for California. He had replied: "Yes, many undesirables came to the state in the early days, whom we sent as far as possible without drowning."

Dr. M. E. Vance, president of the new organization of Native Sons and Daughters of Nebraska, brought greetings from that society, now one week old. Dr. Vance bespoke the good wishes and co-operation of the Territorials.

Miss Amanda M. Everest, now a resident of Lincoln, was voted into honorary membership.

The lurid side of life in Omaha in early days was presented in an article written by Alfred Sorenson, editor of the Omaha Excelsior, was read by C. E. Bardwell. The record was of conditions in 1870 and 1871, when open gambling was permitted in the future metropolis of the state. Gambling houses were said to run day and night, including Sunday. An occasional raid was called off, but the houses resumed the next day as if nothing had happened. The names of many characters prominently known in Omaha at the period were mentioned.

The newly elected president of the association, Moses P. O'Brien, was living in Omaha at the period of which Mr. Sorenson wrote. Mr. O'Brien said the events and conditions related were no doubt true, but that Omaha also had plenty of good people in those days and was no worse, according to his recollection, than other places at the time.

The latter part of the meeting was opened to reminiscences from any one who cared to speak. Brief recitals of early privations, Indian depredations, and personal experiences held the company till late in the afternoon. The dining room of the Grand hotel was filled to its capacity thruout the session.

A Stubborn Cough Loosens Right Up

This home-made remedy is a wonder for quick results. Easily and cheaply made.

Here is a home-made syrup which millions of people have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs. It is cheap and simple, but very prompt in action. Under its healing, soothing influence, chest soreness goes, phlegm loosens, breathing becomes easier, tickling in throat stops and you get a good night's restful sleep. The usual throat and chest colds are conquered by it in 24 hours or less. Nothing better for bronchitis, hoarseness, croup, throat tickle, bronchial asthma or winter coughs

To make this splendid cough syrup, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup and shake thoroughly. If you prefer use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you get a full pint—a family supply—of much better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its prompt healing effect upon the membranes

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Tanlac Restored Health After Attack of Flu

Mrs. L. E. Wyrick, a charming matron, of 210 Clay St., Jefferson City, Mo., is another to whom the Tanlac treatment has, to use her own words, "restored the joys of good health," after she had "despaired of getting well."

"When I began taking Tanlac," said she, "my health seemed hopelessly gone. A spell of influenza two years ago left me in such a bad condition that neither myself or friends thought I could get well. I lived on just milk and bread for a long time and was so weak that my will power was all that kept me going.

"Tanlac brought my appetite right back and four bottles built up my weight twelve pounds. The change Tanlac made in me is both delightful and astonishing. I don't think I would be exaggerating to say it saved my life, and I will always praise it."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

COST OF GAME BUREAU.

Secretary Shumway of the department of agricultural has compiled a statement showing the receipts of the state game bureau from game licenses and other sources from 1918 when the total was $63,422 to 1923 when the amount was approximately $150,000 for the year. The expenditures in the year 1919 totaled $41,596; 1920, $45,532; 1921, $42,226; 1922, $41,628; 1923, $71,526. An appropriation of $50,000 to keep fish from freezing appropriated by the last legislature has not yet been expended but is likely to be, the Mr. Shumway does not refer to this in his compilation. Game licenses formerly went to the state school fund but now they are paid into the general fund.

GREENWOOD'S FIRE DAMAGE

Only the books of the three institutions remain. The postoffice and bank records are securely locked in the vault of the bank which withstood the flames. No attempt to open the vault will be made for several days, said Mr. Hall, on account coun tof the great heat of the metal of the great heat. After three futile attempts, Ernest F. Smith succeeded in making his way thru the flames and thick smoke to the place where he kept his books and they too were saved.

A temporary post office was set up in the C. E. Calfee harness shop, by Postmistress C. M. Coleman. All mail arriving on the morning trains was distributed from that place. Mrs. Coleman, when asked to estimate the amount of mail lost in the blaze, s aid she believed the loss to be light. Only the mail awaiting rural delivery and a few insured parcels remained in the postoffice when the fire started, she said.

Temporary offices for the bank will be established in the basement of the Masonic hall Mr. Hall announced. Mr. Smith, when asked about his plans, stated that he didn't know what he was going to do.

"Collect the insurance, is about the first move," he said jokingly. He then stated that about $3,500 of his $6,000 drug stock was covered by insurance.

By 9:30 a. m. all danger of the fire spreading, was thought to have passed and workmen began carrying the groceries and pool tables back into the adjacent buildings from which they had been hurriedly carried into the alleys at the first warning of the flames approach.

Hundreds of gallons of chemicals were poured into the smouldering basements and by 11:30 a. m. the fire was thought to be nearly out.

Officers of the Greenwood bank which was burned are: H. K. Frantz, president; J. C. Deuser, vice president; P. L. Hall, jr., cashier, and Earl Miller, assistant cashier.

MAY GO UNINSTRUCTED

T. S. Allen Believes He Is Qualified as Unbiased Judge of Presidential Timber.

T. S. Allen of Lincoln called at the capitol on business Thursday. He admits the truth of reports that he intends to file as a democratic candidate for delegate at large. Former Senator G. M. Hitchcock is expected to file as a delegate at large, Judge J. J. Thomas of Seward will file and Ex-Governor Keith Neville of North Platte is likely to do so. The democrats are entitled to elect four delegates at large and two from each of the six congressional districts, making a total of sixteen.

The delegation may possibly go without instructions from the voters this year. Mr. McAdoo has declined to permit his name to be used in this state as a presidential preference candidate. Governor Bryan has indicated that his name will not appear upon the ballot as a presidential preference candidate unless some one not really representative of the majority of the party thrusts himself upon the ticket. If there is no democratic presidential candidate on the primary ballot the democratic delegation will have to content itself to go to New York free and untrammeled by the advice of their party rank and file as to how to vote. Candidates who have thus far filed for delegate are friendly to a Nebraska man if such a man has any chance.

"Do you believe you are in a position to be an unbiased and unprejudiced judge of who should be president of the United States?" Mr. Allen was asked.

"I do not see why I should not be a good juryman in such a case," answerde Mr. Allen. "I see Mr. McAdoo is not asking for the delegation in this state and if it goes without instructions it will surely be a free lance in the convention. I believe I am a competent juryman."

"Instruct your delegates" was a war cry of W. J. Bryan when he was active in Nebraska politics.

MEN HEAR JUDGE COSGRAVE

Duties of Citizenship Subject of Address Before Havelock Club Wednesday.

Judge Cosgrave spoke before the Havelock Men's club at their evening meeting in the Congregational church, on "Some of Our Duties." After traveling in all but five of the states, and in eleven foreign countries, and serving in the war the judge said he had concluded the greatest need of the age was to cultivate peace between men and nations. He advocated constructive relations with Germany and a consistent defense against the insidious propaganda coming in by way of soviet Russia. He spoke for the preservation of free speech, a free press, and the courts of the country.

At the conclusion of his talk, Judge Cosgrave was asked to address a meeting in the high school auditorium the evening of February 12, when a Lincoln program is to be given, and the club voted to attend this meeting in a body.

Superintendent Morrison of the Burlington storehouse department suggested that the attendance for the next meeting be doubled, thru the expedient of each member bringing another man. This meeting takes place February 5 and the principal speaker will be Byron Clark of Omaha. O. J. Fee, Frank Cline and F. J. Sias will address subsequent meetings.

A social hour followed the program, and Robert McKinney's committee served refreshments.

KORSMEYER CLUB ORGANIZED

Employes and Officers Unite to Promote Efficiency

The Korsmeyer Service club held its first official meeting Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock in the office of the Korsmeyer company. G. W. Hill, manager utility department, was in charge of the meeting and gave the opening address. Miss Clara Warren, in the absence of Miss Ellen Terry, [illegible] W. Korsmeyer, vice president, and A. H. Powell, sales manager, spoke of the advantages and pleasures to be derived from such an organization.

The chief object of the meeting was the adoption of a constitution and by-laws, which had been previously prepared. Stanley Matejka, manager sales propotion department, was elected president and immediately took the chair. The remaining officers were chosen as follows: John Eash, salesman, vice president; Miss Laura Hoffman, sales promotion department, secretary; C. D. Bryson, manager fixture department, treasurer. The standing committees are to be appointed at the next meeting.

The object of the club is to render more efficient service to the customers of the Korsmeyer company, to promote closer social relations among the employes and officers of the company, and to instruct the members by educational meetings. CLERK'S SALARY AT ISSUE

Boyd County Refuses Payment to Young Woman Who Assisted the County Judge.

Argument was heard in supreme court Thursday afternoon on the appeal of the commissioners of Boyd county from a judgment to the effect that Miss Frances E. Ford was entitled to her salary for the year 1921 as assistant to the county court, Judge Ford.

The board appointed her for a year at $720, but says it declined to reappoint her because the legislature of 1921 changed the law. The controversy involves the right of a county judge in counties where the population is over 3,000 to have a clerk if there are not enough fees earned by the office to pay them. In 1921 the county judge of Boyd earned $1,902 in fees and drew $1,900 in salary.

The county board says that before 1921 the law permitted the granting of an assistant to be paid out of the general fund, bu tthat after 1921 it had no such authority. The other side contended that the legislative intent was very clearly expressed in the new law, and that it did not change the status of an assistant.

KEEFE TALKS ABOUT TAXES

Sees But Two Ways to Solve Problem, He Tells Buffalo County Farmers.

KEARNEY, Neb., Jan. 23.—"There are only two ways to solve the tax problem," stated H. L. Keefe, president of the Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation, in a lecture before two hundred farmers at the annual meeting of the Buffalo county Farm Bureau here Tuesday. "Either the expenditure must be decreased at the one end, or we must get more people to help carry the burden at the other end. I can see no other way."

The federation, according to its president, plans to submit two referendums at the next election to the people of the state. One will be relative to the matter of a state income tax. The second will deal with a revision of tax laws, so that tax levy will be made against the productive value of property rather than against the assessed valuation.

H. C. Filley, of the University of Nebraska, was a second speaker on the program. His lecture, illustrated with charts, was on "What Nebraska Crops Cost." Among other things, he outlined and explained nine forces affecting price. These nine forces were supply and demand, cost of production, market strategy, monopoly, money, credit, cost of transportation, commercial cost and import duties. Professor Filley stated that he expects little reduction in transportation costs for the future, since most of the major expenses of the railroads, including coal, steel and labor, have doubled and trebled in the past few years.

The new officers of the Farm Bureau for the year are C. Allen Cook, of Lowell, as president. James Haug, of Shelton, vice president; Stanley Harris, secretary; Joe Buck of Shelton, treasurer. Mrs. G. C. Bearss of Kearney was re-elected for another term on the executive committee. Others on this committee are Joe Zwiener of ePlasanton and W. T. Gould, of Elmcreek.

He said here today his leases were entirely legal and that his statement would clear him and the leases from all connection with any suspected corruption.

Fall and Col. J. Y. Zeverly, Sinclair's Washington attorney, are due in Washington at 10:20 p. m. today, according to a telegram received here from the train on which they are traveling. Both Fall and Zeverly were reported as remaining in seclusion in their compartment, having their meals taken to them.

Secretary of the Navy Denby conferred with President Coolidge at the white house for fifteen minutes today, but would not admit he talked about Teapot Dome.

Denby refused to comment on the senate investigation beyond saying that so far as he could see, no facts had been disclosed yet.

Denby has told friends within the past twenty-four hours that his conscience is easy on the naval leases and that he will not get into the matter unless he is drawn in.

Denby approved the naval oil reserves leases with Sinclair and Doheny. He testified before the senate committee some months ago, that the leasing was "a detail" which he did not carefully investigate.

MEXICAN PLEADS INNOCENCE.

Tom Perry, a Mexican, and an inmate of the state reformatory, plead ed innocence to an information charging him with escaping from custody, when arraigned Thursday morning in the criminal division of the Lancaster county district court. The date of the trial was not set because a new term of court begins Monday. Perry was serving time for grand larceny, when on the evening of August 12, 1923, he scaled the high fence of the reformatory while no officer was looking, and made a dash for freedom. He was caught in the Burlington switch yards, a few hours later. Perry has a former criminal record. The Mexican has a very bad leg and Superintendent Miller does not yet understand how he was able to get over the barbed wire which tops the high fence.

Burlington Man Is Hurt.

BRUNING, Neb., Jan. 24.—O. L. Swoveland, a Burlington railway fireman, running thru here on a run between Fairmont and Chester, was severely injured here yesterday, and had to be taken to his home in Fairmont in an automobile. He was scooping coal into the engine when a large chunk of coal rolled down from the back of the tender and struck him on the foot, badly skinning his leg and mashing the toes.

BAD BREATH

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Get at the Cause and Remove It

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, act gently on the bowels and positively do the work.

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, griping cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without griping, pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect. 15c and 30c.—Advertisement.

SHUMWAY NOT CANDIDATE.

A letter from H. E. Miles of the Fair tariff league to Grant Shumway of the Department of Agricurture says: "Your letters are so clear and helpful I delight in them, and wonder why you are not a governor or United States senator. May you hasten on and up!"

Deputy Shumway responded that in the past he had had such ambitions at times, but now he believed his line of opportunity for best service to agriculture and Nebraska was in personally retraining from being a candidate for any thing, and in helping to elect others who have the right ideals.

GOOD BEHAVIOR WINS RELEASE

Nebraska City Authorities Get Information on Prisoner.

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb., Jan. 24.—Everett Rockwell, arrested on a petty larceny charge ten days ago, was released from the city jail here before serving all of his fifteen-day sentence. He was freed because of good behavior, according to Turley Cook, chief of police.

Sheriff Ryder today received a letter from D. D. Hazen of Belchertown, Mass., who said he sold Rockwell a Ford sedan in October, 1923, and as the man was back in his payments, he desired that the car be held until Rockwell either paid up or furnished additional security.

The sheriff also received information about Rockwell from the Hooper-Holmes information bureau in New York city. His father is employment director for the Bowery Y. M. C. A. in New York and bears a good reputation. According to the letter, Rockwell started on his alleged downward path when he was overcome by the death of his sister. Later he married a Boston girl, who is said to have sent him west to start over again.

Rockwell was running a concession at the Belchertown, Mass., fair when Hazen sold him the car. He drove it west and then was arrested here after he was caught shortchanging two drug stores.

Jayhawker Basketball Team has Won Thirty-one Straight

KANSANS COME HERE FOR TILT SATURDAY

Coach Allen's Basketeers Labor Under Double Strain—Huskers Start Working Out at Coliseum.

LAWRENCE, Kas., Jan. 24.—Thirty-one consecutive conference victories since January 24, 1922, was the record established by the University of Kansas in defeating the Kansas Aggies last Tuesday night. The game also enabled Kansas to remain in a tie for first place with Washington in the present Missouri Valley race with a clean slate thru four wins and no defeats.

Kansas faces a hard game this week when the Jayhawkers go to Nebraska Saturday night for a battle with a team which they barely nosed out, 19 to 18, here last week. The Huskers are one of the strong teams of the conference this season, altho they fell out of the perfect percentage class last week when they lost three games on a road trip.

Kansas has a hard row to hoe the remainder of the season. The cagers of Coach F. C. Allen won the conference title last year without a defeat and it is naturally desirable to Valley teams to knock Kansas off. So with a consecutive win record to fight for as well as the defense of the championship on their minds the Jayhawkers are naturally under considerable strain aside from the fierce battling presented by all conference teams this season due to the unusual strength of practically every team.

Coach Kline is putting his Husker basketeers thru their paces now at the coliseum where future games will be played. The coliseum floor is maximum size but okey in every respect Coach Kline says.

The move to the coliseum was necessitated by the overflowing crowds which jammed the armory at every conference game. Special street car service will be maintained Saturday night. John Selleck, business manager of athletics, states and he is promising every fan who turns out a seat. The game starts at 7:30.

BAT STRAYER MEETS O'TOOLE IN WINDUP

Lincoln Lightweight Replaces Hudkins on Sioux City Card—Socklyn Is Popular in Des Moines.

Battling Strayer, Lincoln lightweight, will replace Ace Hudkins in the main event of a fight at Sioux City, Saturday night, in which the Lincoln battler was slated to go against Jack O'Toole. Hudkins has an injured nose and it was thought best by his manager, Harry Reed, to keep him out of the ring until it gets better. Carl Trenholm is refereeing the Sioux City bouts.

Billy Hale, who has been dividing his time between handling Strayer and promoting the last fight here, got a call Wednesday night from Des Moines. He was asked to locate Sid Socklyn, get him on a train and send him to Des Moines in order that he could be introduced from the ring there Friday night at Tommy Ryans' show. Socklyn was booked to appear on this card but he was unable to do it on account of a bad cut over one eye which he sustained Tuesday night here in his bout with Charley Long, Omaha negro.

"And every dime of Socklyn's expenses will be paid by Ryan. Outside of Dempsey I know of few boxers who get their expenses paid anyplace merely to be introduced from the ring. Socklyn evidently is a popular boy in the Iowa capital," Hale said.

LINCOLN QUINT TO YORK AND GENEVA

Coach Browne's Men On First Invasion—York Has Veteran Outfit—Conference Tangle May Unravel.

Coach Browne's basket tossing aggregation will hit the road Friday night for an argument with Ernie Hubka's undefeated York quintet and on Saturday evening will tangle with the Geneva high cagesters on the Fillmore county court.

Lincoln has a clean slate, having trounced Alliance, Ashland, Waverly, Creighton Prep and Omaha Central in a row. The Red and Black five, led by Captain Frank Corrick, has been setting a fast pace in the games to date. Against Creighton Prep, the Capital City outfit failed to function until the latter minutes of the game, but against Omaha Central, the home five uncorked a neat passing game and cratty defense. The Purple and White five were completely outclassed and seemed to lay down when Marrow failed to get loose and cage his usual number of tallies.

Kahler performed like a veteran in guard position and "Bob" King showed class at forward. "Jug" Brown, as usual nabbed the individual scoring honors but he was aided by Corrick's fine work in taking the ball down the floor. Warde and Kipp, alternating at the pivot position, were fighting all the while and the latter's long flip in the second quarter turned the tide to Lincoln's favor.

The state conference muddle should clear up when Kearney Normal tackles Fred Dale's Wayne cagesters and Ernie Adam's Omaha university five. The Kearney outfit is leading the league at present with two wins and no setbacks. Doane college will attempt to enter the win column in its annual fracas with the Cotner Bulldogs' Friday night on the Bethany court. The Crete team will also shoot baskets with York college's quintet this week. Nebraska Central is scheduled for a pair of contests, one with Grand Island and the other with Coach Sarson's York basketeers. RELEGATE AGE IN AMATEUR GOLF NOW

President Vanderpool, President of U. S. G. A., Takes Slap at Older Players Who Have No Chance to Win.

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—Smacks that age takes against youth are always featured more than the socks that youth lands on age.

Perhaps that is the reason why a subtle but potent punch taken by age in a speech made recently by Winant D. Vanderpool, president of the United States Golf association, slipped by almost unnoticed.

"In spite of the efforts of the eligibility committee, the number of players entering the amateur championship is still large. It is very desirable that this event should be played in one week and that the tournament should start ou Monday morning. This can be accomplished only by reducing the list of those eligible to compete. It seems unfortunate that players having no possible chance of going thru should continue to enter. I do not wish to discourage the younger players whose game is constanly improving. My thought is that there are a number of older players, who, even tho they qualify, cannot possibly go thru the tournament. These, I think, we should try to dissuade from entering because it hardly seems fair to those who really have a chance to be called upon for an extra day's play."

Walter Kelly Tells One.

Walter Kelly, the noted "Virginia Judge" and the proudest man in the world of his young brother, Jack, the champ oarsman, tells this one:

An Englishman, pacing up and down the tow path of the Brussels canal, had been worn to the point of collapse watching the navy eight eight win from the famed Leander crew of England in the last 100 yards. He was further reduced when Kelly pulled up from behind and beat Beresford in the last seventy-five yards and he was about floored when Kelly and Costello did the same thing in the doubles.

"Might I ask you," he said to Kelly after the race, "is it the custom in America to let the other fellow win until the last few yards?"

Kelly replied that it was considered advantageous to make the opponent set the pace and then "take him."

"Mighty effective, it is," the Englishman replied, "but damnably annoying."

Follow Up With This.

The "Judge," who is the world's open story telling champion, also has this one:

Beresford, son of a lord, wasn't keen about competing against Kelly, a "trades person," and he made several remarks about it.

He was forced by courtesy to say something after Kelly had beaten him in the finals and he walked up to him and forced out:

"Congratulations."

Young Kelly replied:

"Sympathy to you, sir!"

While some disturbances are being caused by the two rival bodies that are fighting for the control of the American olympic team, no false notions should be assumed that everything is tranquil among the foreign nations.

TILDEN'S TROUBLES TO BE IRONED OUT

Lawn Tennis Association in Secret Session to Plan Ways of Getting Together With the Champion Again.

BY HENRY L. FARRELL.

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—Settlement of differences between William Tilden and the United States Lawn Tennis association about the Davis cup question and writing of articles for newspapers, will be accomplished before the opening of the outdoor season, it is undestood from reliable authority today.

Julian S. Myrick, former president of the United States Lawn Tennis association and a leading member of the Davis cup committee, ordered a secret meeting of the committee last night.

No announcement was made and the committee in its desire for secrecy would not even disclose the meeting place. The association announced that a report on the devolopments would be made later in the week.

Tilden's row with a member of the Davis cup committee, who criticised his playing in the doubles match of the challenge round last summer resulted very seriously, when the world's champion threatened to retire from international competition if the association did not change its policy in naming the players for the team.

The feeling that the matches were won on the courts and not in the council chambers of the association and that the committee was taking itself too seriously, caused the public generally to support Tilden in the argument and led the association to believe that Tilden, while a "radical," might be partially right.

Adam Krieger, junior middleweight champion wrestler, hurt himself in his last match here with Chris Hanson and he has been resting since that time. Krieger has an opportunity to wrestle soon in Missouri, his manager H. C. Wittmann announced. Mr. Wittmann also stated that an effort to line up a match here between Johnny Meyers

CHAPTER VI.

Alaska and $60,000 in Gold Dust.

We were sitting around a stove one night in a combination hardware, grocery, feed, clothes and liquor store in Henrietta, when one of the cattlemen got a letter from Jim Roberts, who had left his ranch in 1890 to go up to Alaska.

I was the town marshal of Henrietta then, wearing a blue uniform, broad-brimmed hat, gold star and everything. And, let me tell you, I was getting mighty tired of the job. We hadn't had any excitement for a month.

"Listen what Jim says," said the man who had got the letter: "So cold up there that he wanted to climb in the stove on top of the fire, but one feller said it wouldn't do no good 'cause some fool'd come along and leave the door open."

"Yes," said one of the old men in the group, "and they tell me whisky freezes up there so hard that you can carry it around in your pocket like a plug of tobacco an' bite off a chew whenever you feel like it."

"Wait a minute, fellows," begged the reader. "Ol' Jim says he was in on a gold strike and they dug out more'n fifty thousand dollars' worth of gold in a week."

The crowd then went into a lengthy discussion of what they'd do if they had a million dollars, like they thought Jim had.

"Wal," decided an old man named Banks when it came to him, "I reck'n I'd pay it on my debts—far as it went."

The old fellows talked on about the money, but a young fellow named Will Slack and myself got to thinking about Alaska. The upshot of it was that we decided to hook up together and go after gold. It wasn't long before we were on our way.

In 1895 we landed at Juneau, Alaska, but found we hadn't really got started.

Five Miles Uphill for a Week.

To begin with, we had to get a year's supply of grub and take it over the Chilkoot Pass to the lakes on the other side—about forty miles.

One night Slack came in after talking to a prospector.

"Man," he said, "do you know that after we climb that mountain over all that ice we got to hitch ourselves up and pull a sled more'n three hundred miles?"

That made us think. But being young and full of pep we planned to try it.

"First, we had to carry our stuff up the side of that steep mountain five miles to the top—one pack at a time. That was a job. We had to take a small load and then make another trip until we had the whole outfit on top. It took us more than a month. On top we could load the stuff on sleds and slide down to the other side. After working ourselves into a perspiration we would nearly freeze when we stopped to rest. We certainly cooled off—and cooled off quick.

When we eventually reached the lake at the bottom, frozen solid, Slack stopped and looked at me.

"Tex," he said, "Texas may be short on gold, but she's short on ice and cold weather, too."

Just the same we piled up those sleds, hitched ourselves to them and pulled them three hundred miles over the coldest, wildest region that any man ever saw. It was well along toward fall when we covered the chain of lakes and reached the head of the Yukon. We passed the spot where Dawson City now stands without seeing so much as a house. We were headed for Circle City, so named because it is just inside the Arctic circle.

To describe that trip would take a book or two, and men like Rex Beach and Stewart Edward White have done it lots better than I could expect to do.

Will Slack stuck until his help was no longer needed and then told the world that we could have Alaska and he'd take Texas. Will Slack was one of the best fellows in the world but he liked his comfort more than Klondike gold. I don't know but that he was sensible, at that. Still, he went back to Texas and was killed in a gun fight.

Goes Thru With It.

I had taken a chance, tho, and was going thru with it.

We wintered in Circle City and worked out from there in the spring. I was lucky enough to buy out the No. 3 and No. 4 claims of the Bonanza strike. This, however, was after I left Circle City and got into the Klondike.

George Cormack, who had an Indian wife, discovered the Bonanza lead. That was the first time I ever heard of a squaw man. That is what everybody called Cormack.

The squaw man had been on a moose hunting trip. On his way down a little river, which he afterwards named the Bonanza, he stopped for water. Right on the edge of the stream his eye fell on a piece of gold. The rocks and sand in the swift water had worked at the gold until it was exposed.

No use for me to tell you what excitement there is over a gold strike. The odd part of it is that Cormack, even with millions in front of him, had not struck his richest part of the gold at all. There were many fortunes in what he found, but on a little branch of the stream a little further up, called the Eldorado—well, it was simply studded with gold. It would be difficult to count the millions of dollars taken out of there.

Anyway, I staked out those two Bonanza claims and had a half interest. They brought me in a lot of money.

When we got back to Circle City in May we heard some big news.

"A man named McKinley was elected president last November," an old miner told me. "Ever hear of him?"

To tell the truth, I hadn't. Then we got the details of the campaign with Bryan. The talk of sixteen to one had fixed the price of gold in Alaska. We used gold dust for money and it was always worth sixteen dollars to the ounce.

They Bet on 17 and 23.

I sold out my Bonanza interest and had about $60,000 in gold dust. Just like the others, I went in for a good time. Then it was that I first got the gambling fever.

A man named Tom Turner had come in from the outside with news of how badly they needed a gambling house at Dawson. The miners wanted amusement and also wanted some fellows with whom they could leave their gold for safe keeping.

The proprietor of a gambling house was much like a hotel or innkeeper. It was no cinch. There wasn't any graft. Nobody preyed on suckers. There were no suckers, to tell the truth. A gambling house was sort of social headquarters.

I went in with Turner and we opened up a gambling house, drinking and eating place. We lasted about four months.

One night a lot of fellows came in to bet on the middle column and Nos. 17 and 23 of the roulette layout and hit us hard. If they won they'd simply pile on more gold dust in small stacks and tell us to roll. We rolled ourselves right out of house and home. At the same time they were taking us hard on faro.

As I say, the gambling house was no cinch. Later I will tell of a more exciting gambling adventure—of my rise to wealth in that country. This time, tho, the finish is sad. I started in with $57,000 that I had left out of the Bonanza strike and lost every cent of it. I was flat broke, and it was getting colder.

"Don't worry, my boy," a friendly old miner whispered to me the next day. "They're striking it rich down at Rampart."

That night we were busy packing up.

Tomorrow: The Fourth of July, 1899.

Chicago Tribune Report.

CHICAGO, Jan. 24.—Large operators in the wheat trade express the belief that supplies of so plentiful that a good advance would be difficult to obtain.

Foreign orders are somewhat mixed as to the desirability of ruling on advances, but there remains a large export purchases on the slide. Stocks everywhere are low, less than 200,000 bushels in sight supply. Farmers are not offering freely and industries are drawing on supplies in public warehouses and in mills in preparation for the month of January.

Corn is showing strength on the theory that country stocks are depleted and in spite of the fact that shipping sales were light during the latter part of the week.

A good clearance attended purchases on the theory that winter wheat had been damaged in Kentucky, Virginia and Tennessee by recent freezing and rains had been reported in Kansas.—Harper.

Herald-Examiner Report.

CHICAGO, Jan. 24.—Many traders last night expressed the opinion that both wheat and corn are due for a good decline in prices, but they hesitated to indicate that the bull market had got good support on the late setback.—Lamson.

Journal of Commerce Report.

CHICAGO, Jan. 24.—It was Rockefeller's money in corn that has just started. He and Ryan are the big corn operators also in the market, are credited with buying 2 to 3 million bushels.

Coming Events in Stocks.

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—Under the leadership of the steel group and the sound oils the market is expected to make further progress in today's session. The refined readjustment has improved the general market position to such an extent that averages should reach new high ground before another week has passed.—Lamson.

Wall Street Journal Review

NEW YORK Jan 24.—Business news overnight was constructive especially in regard to the oil steel and some other industries Crude oil production in the week ended January 19 was 1,889,450 barrels daily, falling off 5,850 barrels daily from the preceding week.

Heavy inquiries for locomotives were reported in the steel market.

The result was that at the opening of the stock market today the whole industrial list maintained the strong tone which developed in Wednesday's last hour.

Corn products continued its spectacular advance reaching another record high at 178, while further recoveries took place in Studebaker, Steel, American Can and other industrial leaders.

Stock Market Opinions.

Post & Flagg: The market has acted well the last two days.

Stein Alstrin: No general change in view of railroad or steel markets.

Logan & Bryan: Believe tendency will be upward.

Broaman-Well: Many stocks had a healthy tone yesterday despite some profit taking. Belief is prevalent among market judges that rails have lagged amply over nervousness as to what congress may do. California Petroleum remains the favorite of those bullish over the oil outlook. Increasing supplies and resultant higher prices for the product are bound to have their effect according to those in touch with the situation.

Housman: There is evidence of renewal of interest in sugar shares. Philadelphia company looks cheap to us.

Post & Flagg: The popular belief is that 25 cents extra will be declared on U. S. Steel common.—Lamson.

New York Tribune: Professionals who have been selling Studebaker on the belief that the company's business has been falling off were treated to a surprise yesterday on announcement of capacity operations and unfilled orders greatly in excess of a year ago.

American Financial News: There is evidence of support in Studebaker by people who are well aware of the company's affairs.

Casserole Cookery.

By Mrs. Christine Frederick.

Some reader wrote recently and asked the "difference between a casserole and a baking dish." Perhaps others would care to know the distinction between a baking dish, which never has a lid, and a casserole never used without one. Both are flat, and either round, square or oval in form, and may be of materials as widely differing as enamel ware and glass.

The French original of our modern casserole was made of fireproof clay, generally round and deep, with a single handle at one side. It is in this invariable utensil that the French thrifty housewife concocts the delectable stews and ragouts which have made her cuisine famous. Casserole cookery excels in that it preserves the flavor and juices of meat and other foods to the utmost; its slow process breaks down and softens the toughest fibres, it is the least wasteful methods as compared with frying or boiling in which much flavor, fat and substance is lost; and finally, the fact that foods may be cooked and served in the same dish is a point appealing to the many housewives who are also their own maids.

For satisfactory casserole results, the meats used should be first browned or seared on the outside to prevent the escape of their juices; next sufficient hot liquid is added to completely cover the food; and finally the temperature should be held continuously at the simmering point, never above it. If these few simple directions are followed one may transmute the toughest fowl into the tenderest broiler, and the most hard-boiled vegetables into succulent portions. The ideal casserole is one where meat, vegetables and flavor are all so closely combined as to make a single unified dish. The casserole is the opposite of a slice of meat, a spoonful of potato and a helping of peas—it is all of these, put together! We see this when we study chop suey, a casserole dish in principle, having meat, and several vegetables perfectly combined; we also see it in every perfect stew where it is impossible to separate meat from other ingredients.

The housewife seeking satisfying cold weather meals which are also easy to prepare should certainly study casserole cooking. For another great advantage is in her being able to prepare this dish long in advance, even in the early morning when she is about other work, and thus have it ready for a night meal with only a few minutes warming up. If she has a small portable top oven she can cook her casserole most economically over one burner. Another plan is to cover such a dish with a baking powder or other crust before the final serving, and in this "pie" form it is still more satisfying as a cold weather main dish.

Not only meats but fish, vegetables, fruits and soups may all be casserole cooked to great advantage. There is no comparison in flavor between prunes baked in a casserole and those boiled in an open saucepot. The fact that the odors and steam fall back onto the dish is the reason of its greatly increased flavor over the same food so cooked that the steam and smell escape. No one who has ever baked fish on a glass dish would ever return to a frying pan, nor can souffles and many similar dishes be as delicious as if baked and served in the same individual casserole.

Here are some suggestions for good combinations for this season, using the casserole:

Potato and fish souffle.
Mackerel with tomato sauce.
Rabbit and vegetables.
Beef birds and sausage meat.
Hungarian goulash — veal and vegetables.
Oxtails and herbs.
Ox tongue with vegetables.
Stuffed cabbage rolls.
Baked oysters.
Chicken, mushrooms, rice.
Baked liver and bacon.
Chili-con-carne-meat and peppers.
Veal and ham pie with crust.
Frankfurts with noodles.

Here are fourteen, two weeks, entirely different suggestions for the main meal of a cold winter night. None is expensive, mostly all are cheap. It is the casserole method of slow cooking which will develop their flavor and thus add zest and appetite to what otherwise might be a simple dish.

Denominations Non-Essential.

World's Work: It is time we were facing the question: What right has a denomination to exist? Of course, men and women have a legal right to get together and form any sort of society the law will permit. But it is plain truth that no organization of men and women has a right to call itself a Christian church which is not built on Christ's lines. Men differ as to what Christ requires, demands, desires a church to be. Therefore, there is room for varying attempts to realize the ideal of Christ. But no denomination has a right to exist, save as an attempt to realize Christ's ideal for the universal church. All our great denominations were started by men who believed with all the force of their souls that their particular doctrines or forms were essential to Christianity, that "out of them there was no ordinary possibility of salvation." This modern, easy-going practice of recognizing that members of other ecclesiastical bodies are good Christians, and yet insisting that the doctrines and practices which divide us from them are essential, would strike our forefathers as ludicrously inconsistent. Thank God that we have thus grown more broad-minded. But let us have the courage of our convictions, and own cheerfully that none of the things that divide any one set of Christians from any other set of Christians can possibly be counted essential for any Christian.

Those Who Judge.

A little while ago, I received a letter from the veteran English dramatist, Mr. Henry Arthur Jones, in which he said: "I am more than ever convinced that vogue, boht in the theater and in the drama, is the chief maker of present (not permanent) reputations."

Success or failure in the theater is decreed by an untutored populace that knows little about the drama and less about acting; and the dramatic artist is never judged by a jury of his peers. The main reason why most people go to see a certain play is that they have heard that many other people ar egoing to see it; it is not merit that attracts them so much as the contagion of success. The many headed multitude is like a herd of sheep. It flocks in droves to see a certain actor who happens to enjoy the vogue and stays away in droves from the performances of another actor whose work ,according to critical standards, may be no less meritorius.

Twenty years ago, when Eleanora Duse was in her early forties and at the prime of her powers, she played to scanty houses in New York and lost so much money for her managers that they were ultimately driven into bankruptcy. This year, the same great actress, appearing as a venerable shadow of her former self, so frail that she can scarcely struggle thru two matinees a week without a physical collapse, has packed the biggest houses in New York and played to more than $30,000 at a single performance. When she was supreme in art, she was not fashionable but she is fashionable now, when she has little to offer to the public but a legend and a memory.—Clayton Hamilton in the oWrld's Work for February.

Forty Miles to a Dance.

Scribner's: And one day when we hear of a dance what was going to be pulled off at the crossing we figger there could be no better time for it to happen; so saddling up our private ponies us two boys and the cook set out for hte crossing forty miles away. Too bad the ranch hands couldn't come, being they had to shovel so much hay every day, no more and no less, but they was good enough to let the cook go, remarking that if they couldn't get away they wouldn't keep anybody else from it.

We covered that forty miles and got to the other end in plenty time for the big midnight feed. We had our ears all wrapped up to keep 'em from freezing off, but, along with the coyotes howling to the moon, we could hear old Darb a see-sawing on his fiddle and somebody else calling the dance a half mile before we reached the house.

Lights was in every room and the smoke was coming straight up thru three different chimneys; so we spurred up our ponies and rode towards the stock yards, where we turned 'em loose.

We just enters the house as we hear a "tag" dance announced and by the time our chaps, spurs, and extra clothes are took off it's half over, but not too late to tag a couple of hombres, take their ladies, and dance some till we got tagged ourselves. When the dance was thru the blood was beginning to circulate some, and by the time we shook hands all around we was more than ready to help keep things cheerful.

Half the crowd was cow-punchers from everywhere, a few cowmen with their families, from the oldest down to the weaner (what was left in the bedroom but made itself heard now and again), then a few boys from town what sleighed over and brought a few girls along. There was about six men to each lady, and it was always a wonder to me how the supposed to be weaker sex could tire the men even at that, but they did, and the fatter they was the longer they stayed.

Was Race Saved by Disaster?

World's Work: The comment of one savant on the Japanese earthquake was that such disasters, tho of lesser magnitude, had steeled the Japanese national character, and that without these trials the race might have degenerated. He might have extended this observation by pointing out that from this latest and worst catastrophe the Japanese people had risen with renewed courage. They were in the world's markets, buying building materials for rebuilding their cities before the smoke of the fires had faded away in the skies and while the earth was still convulsing.

Neither do the Japanese seem to have despaired of rebuilding a more beautiful and utilitarian city on the ashes of the old Tokio, nor to have given away to undue lamentation over the fate that swept away so much in wealth and human life. With the fortitude of a great race, they have not even considered moving their homes and places of business away from the ill-omened sites of their ruined cities, but have set to work to heed the lessons taught by the disaster, so that the next earthquake will find buildings which resist its destructive shocks. They have called in American engineers and other foreign experts to study their ruins and to make recommendations for rebuilding.

System of Voice Culture.

Scribner's: In meditating the other day on one of the most familiar lines in Tennyson:

"An infant crying in the night,"

I decided that insufficient attention had been given to it by physiologists, phonologists, music teachers, elocutionists, singers, and public speakers. Even those men and women who are fortunate enough to possess, like Marion Crawford's Roman singer, a throat of iron, do not dare to shout and shriek continuously for the space of two hours whilst the average adult, if so roared for fifteen minutes, would probably be hoarse for two days, and might seriously, perhaps permanently, injure his vocal cords. Yet a tender infant, with a throat as soft as wafer, can yell all night fortissimo, and not only do himself no injuyr, but in the morning be fresh as a top bound and not only be able, but quite willing, even eager, to continue. What is the secret of the baby's voice production? It seems to be a matter worth serious investigation. In emission of tone the infant unconsciously has a system that makes the Italian method appear crude. If singing masters could discover what it is, and teach it, all present methods of vocal study would be revolutionized.

The Tyranny of Billboards.

World's Work: Our neighbor The Garden Magazine, is attempting to arouse intetest among lovers of nature against a public nuisance that long since reached unbearable proportions. A journey on almost any well traveled railway, or a trip on any popular automobile road is a constant affront to any man or woman of the slightest sensibility. That the most beautiful prospects in nature should be blanketed by hideous signboards proclaiming the virtues of an automobile tire or a brand of pickles or some new cosmetic; that a railroad ride should be an uninterrupted trip between walls of proclamations singing the praises of ice-cream, motor oils, chewing gum, and liver pills—all this simply means that the country that endures it has missed the graces of civilization.

MEN AND THINGS

It is one of the odd things of life that those who are most haunted by the fear that the wolf of want may some day get closer to their doors than is comfortable for anybody are those who have property, something to lose. Talking with a social worker not long ago he said that he encountered very little of this fear among those whose ill luck or ineptitude demand of the more prosperous occasional aid, and that those who do are invariably those who have seen better days. Thus we have those to whom the wolf gets closest without any trepidation. Distance seems to lend all the fear there is, a fear that as Shakespeare said makes us traitors to ourselves.

The grinding process of the years does bring most of us down to somewhere near the same level, to reduce us to what we might call a common denominator. It is upon this fact that some of the reasoning socialists build their theory of a state. Bernard Shaw once stressed the point in an article intended to prove the impossibility of inequality. Yet the best that men have been able to evolve, in their own interest, is a system where they can furnish equality of opportunity. Even then we are faced with the proposition that opportunity does not mean the same thing to the dull man as it does to the alert man; he may not even see it.

While mentioning things we don't like to see, it will not be amiss to call attention to the fact that the government spends a lot of money during a period of years in making dies to use in the printing of postage stamps. Not long ago it got out an issue of memorial stamps which have printed on each one a splendid likeness of the late president. Yet after we have spent all this money to produce a thing of beauty and do it for the purpose of inculcating in the common people a love of the beautiful, very few of the letters bearing these stamps come to us unless daubed all over or disfigured in some way by a cancellation stamp or an adjuration to insure valuable mail.

On the book shelves of all of the great libraries of the country are to be found numerous tomes dealing with the moralities, and in the innumerable biographies we will find much implied that is concerned with the same subjects. Magazines are printed weekly and monthly that endeavor to impart to people generally the secrets of success. Lecturers go about the country posing as experts on the same subject, and people eagerly drink in what they say. Still, when the whole matter is boiled down, the secret is found to consist in determining what one wants to do and what one can do best and then keeping everlastingly at it, meanwhile observing the common rules of health.

Mr. Bryan is setting Florida democrats by the ears by his championship of an unknown but able citizen as a candidate for president, and the charge is freely made that this is done for the purpose of getting the delegation under the control of Mr. Bryan. He is accused of all sorts of selfish conspiracies and designs. All this is familiar stuff to Nebraskans. Mr. Bryan strove mightily here to give character and standing to the democratic party in spite of its adherence to the doctrine that every man ought to be free to liquor up without the aid or consent of any other person, but he fianlly gave it up and left it to its fate and Governor Charley. It proves his eternal optimism that he tries to do the same for Florida.

Originally every gallon of oil now being pumped from the bowels of the earth belonged to all. The people, as time went on, shifted title to those who would purchase or homestead. A comparatively few of these later owners are now getting unearned and undeserved incomes that might have been used for relieving general taxation if the public had retained mineral rights. The only trouble with that theory is that if it had remained for the government to do exploration and drilling, it never would have been done. We have not arranged all details to our satisfaction, but our bill will probably require that royalty receivers shall have their returns cut down to reasonable proportions, and the excess distributed among all who have got stung buying oil stock. That ought to be popular.

ABE MARTIN

Elections circulate money an' demoralize business, but they never result in lowerin' taxes or settlin' anything. Th' jury acquitted Mrs. Ike Lark t'day, but it wuz too late as ever' buddy had formed an' opinion.

Take a busy insect, add a luscious fruit, add a large African antelope, substract a cereal grass grain, subtract territory and the resulting letters will spell the surname of a famous American divine of the Nineteenth Century.

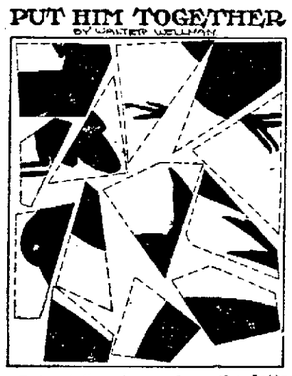
PUT HIM TOGETHER

BY WALTER WELLMAN



Cut out the pieces along the dotted lines, and then paste the pieces together on a stiff piece of cardboard and see what you have. What is it?

Answer to yesterday's puzzle: A MULET. A BOARD. POTTERY.

Gives Life for Young.

A Chinook salmon entering the mouth of the Columbia river in the month of March or April is a strong swimmer, weighing anywhere from twenty to eighty pounds.

She has fed fat on sea food, writes William L. Finley in Nature Magazine of Washington, and her egg sacs may contain from 1,500 to 6,000 eggs The flesh of the salmons is bright pink, almost red, and is full of oil. When she leaves the sea and heads upstream, her last meal has been eaten.

The fatty tissue in the body is the fuel for the long trip and the food that nourishes the eggs.

An all powerful instinct has taken possession of the Chinook, for day by day she heads slowly on toward the spawning bed. It is a journey of perhaps a thousand miles and with many obstacles to pass; the trip may take from four to six months.

The trail of the Chinook leads past endless lines of gill nets, the wire fences of fish traps, the barriers of set-nets and fish wheels, the dangerous entanglements of seines, deadly whirling baits, spears, and other ingenious devices, to say nothing of the many natural and artificial dams.

But the Chinook never loses sight of her mission in life. In the long struggle over innumberable ostacles, her body may be attacked by fungus and disease, her fins may be half worn off, but she keeps on heading up stream between rock walls where the torrent boils until at last she is at home on the gravelly bars of the head waters.

By turning and twisting, she wallows out a nest in the sand and gravel and in the final effort of her life lays her eggs. Her mate is close behind. He keeps other fish away.

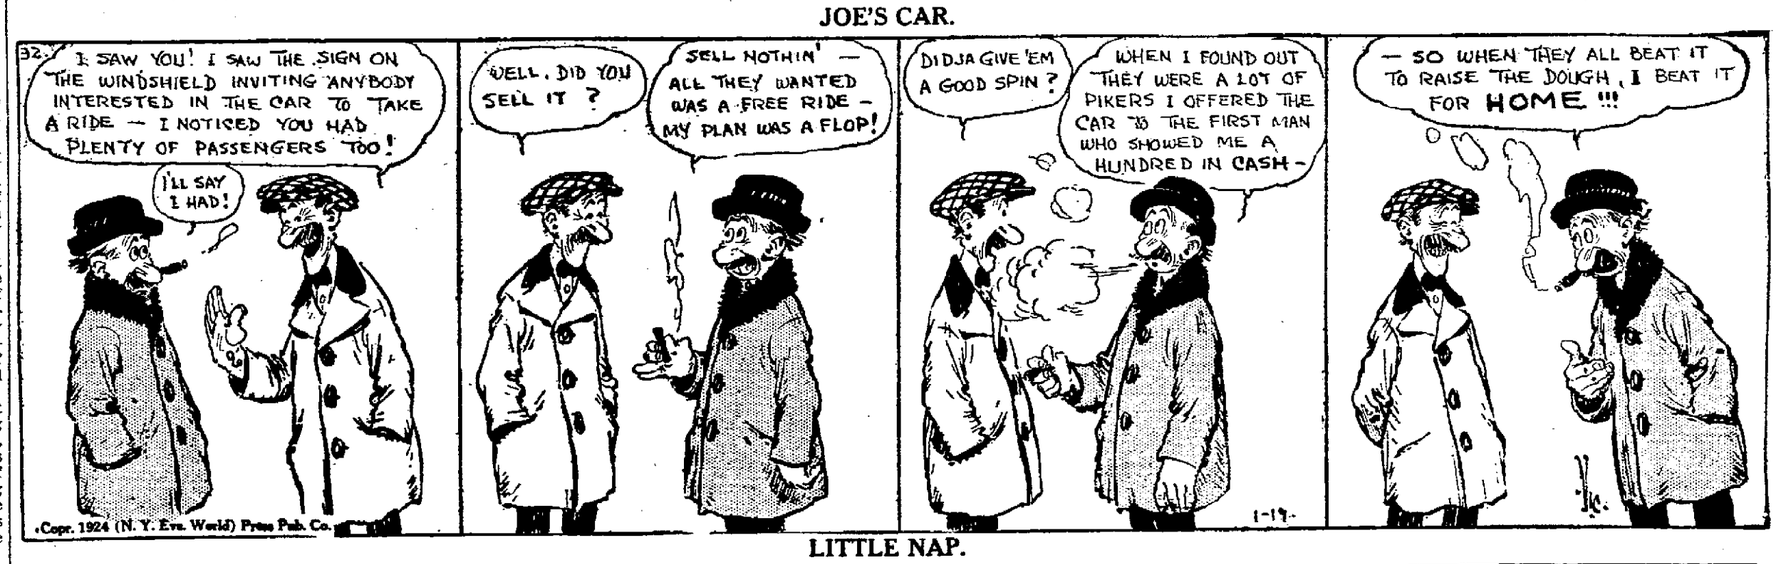
JOE'S CAR.



I SAW YOU! I SAW THE SIGN ON THE WINDSHIELD INVITING ANYBODY INTERESTED IN THE CAR TO TAKE A RIDE — I NOTICED YOU HAD PLENTY OF PASSENGERS TOO!
I'LL SAY I HAD!
WELL, DID YOU SELL IT?
SELL NOTHIN' — ALL THEY WANTED WAS A FREE RIDE — MY PLAN WAS A FLOP!
DIDJA GIVE 'EM A GOOD SPIN?
WHEN I FOUND OUT THEY WERE A LOT OF PIKERS I OFFERED THE CAR TO THE FIRST MAN WHO SHOWED ME A HUNDRED IN CASH —
— SO WHEN THEY ALL BEAT IT TO RAISE THE DOUGH, I BEAT IT FOR HOME!!!
